

John B. Alliger Hit by Automobile Dies in Hospital

Struck by Car of Miss Dorothy MacFadden at Albany and Clinton Avenues Thursday Night—Investigation Relieves Driver of Blame—Mr. Alliger Widely Known

John B. Alliger of No. 77 Pearl street was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Dorothy MacFadden of No. 140 Fair street at the intersection of Albany and Clinton avenues about 9:45 o'clock Thursday evening and died a short time later at the Benedictine Hospital where he was rushed after the accident. Death was caused by a fractured skull and a crushed chest. Mr. Alliger had lived until Monday he would have celebrated his eightieth birthday. For many years he was active in banking circles in Kingston and prominent in Masonic activities.

According to the story as related to the police by eyewitnesses, Miss MacFadden had driven along Albany avenue past the Governor Clinton Hotel and was about to make the turn around the blinker traffic stand at the street intersection into Clinton avenue when Mr. Alliger, who had stepped from the curb and was about to cross the street, was struck, knocked down and carried several feet before the car was brought to a stop.

Miss MacFadden's Statement

In reporting the accident to the police Miss MacFadden made the following statement: "I came down Albany avenue and at the corner of Clinton avenue and Pearl street, I put out a hand in a circular signal for the right turn. Suddenly, so quickly that I hardly saw him, till he was right in front of me, an old man ran across the street. I screamed, I think, and jammed on both foot and emergency brakes but it was all too quick and I hit him. I was going about 14 miles an hour at the time, sixteen at the most."

Miss MacFadden, who is 19 years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert F. MacFadden.

McGrane Saw Accident

Probably the only eyewitness of the tragedy was Thomas McGrane of No. 68 Brewster street and John Harrison. McGrane was driving his car on Albany avenue a short distance behind the Essex runabout in which Miss MacFadden was riding alone. In the car with McGrane were three other young men, Harry Scherf and John Harrison of Prince street and Lawrence Williams.

According to Mr. McGrane's statement to Chief of Police J. Allan Wood and Sergeant Charles Phinney, who investigated the accident, he was driving his car on Albany avenue between 9 and 10 o'clock that evening and saw the MacFadden car ahead of him. At that time he did not know who was driving the runabout. He said he was driving about 15 miles an hour and that the MacFadden car was proceeding at about the same speed. He saw the aged man, who he later learned was Mr. Alliger, step from the curb and the accident followed.

McGrane Said "Look"

Young Harrison, who was riding with McGrane, in reporting his version of the accident, said that while they were driving on Albany avenue McGrane said "Look." Harrison looked ahead and saw a man dodging to the right and left near the light colored runabout.

Body Lay Under Car

When McGrane and his friends reached the scene they found Mr. Alliger lying under the running board of the runabout on the left side, about the center of the car.

According to Harrison some one pulled Mr. Alliger from under the car and just then Dr. Mark O'Meara arrived, and Mr. Alliger was placed in McGrane's car and rushed to the Benedictine Hospital where he died a few minutes after being admitted.

Dead Profoundly

So badly had Mr. Alliger been injured that he died profoundly from the mouth, nose and ears, and at the hospital it was found that his skull had been fractured and his chest crushed. Everything possible was done to relieve him at the hospital by Dr. O'Meara and Dr. John F. Larkin but he was beyond medical aid.

Autopsy Performed

Chief Wood communicated with District Attorney Traver, who directed that an autopsy be performed, which was done by Dr. O'Meara and Larkin.

Conquer W. Norman Conner was incited and later turned the body over to Undertaker E. A. Kelly.

Miss MacFadden Not Held

The police worked on the case for some time Thursday night, examining witnesses and taking their statements, and at the close of the investigation notified the district attorney of the result.

It was decided not to hold Miss MacFadden.

Mr. Alliger Widely Known

There were few men more widely known in Kingston and Ulster county than Mr. Alliger. He was born at Albany, N. Y., on May 22, 1847, and was the eldest of the family of Cornelius D. and Maria Alliger, both of whom were of French descent.

Frantic Appeals From Residents of Acadian Country

Bayou Teche Becomes a Raging Torrent From The Back Waters of the Atchafalaya and Bayou Des Glaises Breaks, Causing Panic

New Orleans, May 20 (AP)—Panic today began to supplant the derisive confidence with which residents of the Acadian country have viewed the possibilities of a flood. Frantic appeals for aid were received at all concentration centers and relief workers were sent out to save the same persons who a few days ago refused to leave their homes when pleaded with by rescue workers.

The cause for the sudden change was disclosed when refugees arriving at the camp at Lafayette said that they had not been afraid when flood warnings had been broadcast but when relatives and friends from farther away Bayou Teche had spread the alarm their confidence dwindled.

Bayou Teche, which flows through the heart of the Acadian country and ordinarily seems to have no current, has become a raging torrent from the back waters of the Atchafalaya and Bayou Des Glaises breaks and has overflowed its banks in many places.

Residents of Arnaudville said that water had reached that town yesterday afternoon when they left. They added that it was coming so rapidly that many probably would be cut off before they could get out and would have to be taken away in boats.

The sudden rise in the Teche found the town unprepared. All women and children were ordered out, while the men stayed behind to save what they could.

Because of the sudden change in front of the part of the threatened area, which is 100 to 130 miles northwest of New Orleans, on the west side of the river, facilities have been seriously taxed.

Trainload of Boats Arrive. A trainload of boats and 35 men reached Lafayette last night and a train was sent to Washington, La., from Monroe. Another trainload of craft was on the way from Beaumont, Tex.

An additional fleet was being concentrated at Morgan City and Houma. Several coast guard patrol boats and private craft were being gathered.

In addition to the 500 persons who were taken out of the territory around Melville, Palmetto, Opelousas and Krotz Springs yesterday, rescue workers today began to evacuate all persons between Melville and Simmsport.

About 150 persons, reported to be in need of food and other supplies, but refusing to leave, are living on a levee at Melville. Red Cross officials planned to send supplies to them.

Conditions at Melville were reported to be growing steadily worse. The water was said to have risen six to 12 inches last night, and the depth in town is now 15 to 20 feet. The town marshal has given orders that all livestock in the dike be killed, presumably to eliminate the danger of live sloughing.

Donates $50,000 For Flood Relief

Grand Knight Florian P. Wingert of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, received a communication today from William J. McGinley, supreme secretary, stating the action taken by the order in regards to the relief of the Mississippi flood victims.

"Meeting in Chicago Saturday, April 30, the supreme board of directors of the Knights of Columbus appropriated $50,000 from the general fund of the order for the relief of sufferers in the Mississippi flood. Half of this sum was contributed to the relief fund being raised by the American Red Cross. The other half is being administered by the Knights of Columbus councils within the flooded area. Supreme Knight James A. Fitzhugh expressed the hope that every American citizen would contribute promptly and generously to the Red Cross fund."

FAMILY NEAR DEATH WHEN HOUSE BURNED ON SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith and their young daughter had a narrow escape from death at 2 o'clock Sunday morning when their house on the Irish Cape road at Ellenville caught fire and burned. They awoke to find the bedroom full of smoke. Hastily picking up their little daughter they dashed, scantily clad, into the yard and stood there watching the house burn as there were no facilities for fighting the flames. They went Monday night with neighbors and then set about building a temporary shack near the ruined house. They carried $2,000 insurance on house and contents but the loss will exceed that amount.

Plaintiffs Win Auto Damages

Broadway Collision Results in $150 Verdict Against Transportation Corporation in Supreme Court—$1,500 Verdict in Undeclared Suit

In the Supreme court Thursday afternoon, an action brought by Edward Brown of this city to recover damages to his Overland car which he alleged was caused by the negligent operation of one of the city busses of the Kingston City Transportation Corporation was tried. He alleged that on March 31, 1926, as he was driving down Broadway on his way to work, one of the busses came out of O'Neil street and collided with his car near the water trough at the junction of Broadway and Henry street. The defendant company alleged that it was not to blame but that the plaintiff drove his car into the right side of the bus and was struck. William H. Grogan appeared for plaintiff and William D. Brinnier and Roscoe V. Elsworth represented the corporation. Brown seeks to recover a repair bill of $98.41 and also for a painting job. The case was tried Thursday afternoon. A verdict of $150 for Brown was returned by the jury this morning.

$1,500 Verdict for Pica

Philly Pica of the town of Lloyd brought an action against Pica Schmidt and Fred Schmidt, Jr., for damages for personal injuries sustained on September 19, 1919, when he alleges he was struck by a Ford car or defendant's driven by the younger man, as he walked along the Highland-Gardiner state road near Highland. The defendants put in no appearance and A. W. Lent of A. D. & A. W. Lent took an inquest in the case late Thursday afternoon. Pica was employed at the Schube grape juice factory as a laborer at $4 a day. On the morning of the accident, he was on his way to work. A passing car stopped to pick him up. The Ford was following. Pica started to cross the road and seeing the car coming, he stepped to the side of the road and waited. The Ford swerved from the road and ran over on the side of the road, struck Pica and ran up a bank and up to the porch of the Haviland house to the right of the road before it stopped. He was laid up for four months with three broken ribs and other injuries. The jury brought in a verdict this morning for Pica for $1,500.

No. 307, Edward D. Loughran et al. against Elbert F. MacFadden, et al. an action on contract, was moved over the term.

No. 365, Gladys W. Kennell against Harry Kennell was dismissed. Grant M. Brinnier appeared for the plaintiff and William H. Grogan appear for defendant.

Funeral of Bath School Children

Complete Funeral Preparations For 44 Victims of School House Blast—Provide Relief For Stricken Community

Bath, Mich., May 30 (AP)—Funeral preparations were completed here today for the 44 persons killed in the blasting of the village school house by Andrew Kehoe, demented farmer, Wednesday, while steps were being taken by the state to provide financial relief for the stricken community.

It was planned to bury some of the victims, 37 of whom were children, late today, and the others Saturday.

Plans for a group funeral were abandoned when ministers and welfare workers agreed the mental anguish would be too great.

"It will be hard enough for fathers and mothers to give up their own, without enduring the trial of seeing all the victims, who a few days ago were joyful schoolmates, go to their grave together," one minister said.

Among those who will be buried Saturday is Kehoe's invalid wife, who the man apparently slew by poisoning in her skull. The body had been tossed into an outhouse where it was burned when flames destroyed the place prior to the school house explosion.

A relief drive, instituted by Governor Fred W. Green, got under way today. Funds to be used for construction of a new school house were being received from over the state by the Red Cross. If insufficient money is obtained by popular subscription, Governor Green said, the state treasury will be drawn upon.

Find Girl's Body in Creek

Buffalo, May 20 (AP)—Several police officers uncovered today by police investigation the identity of a girl's body found floating in Buffalo creek Wednesday. The most prominent police believed came from Mrs. Kitty Kuhn, proprietress of a river-side house, who said the girl was working the description of the murder victim had raised the road before Tuesday night in company with a man.

A Case and Another Solved

A case and another case will be held by the Kingston Division Court at St. Peter's Church on Saturday afternoon from 1 o'clock to 5 o'clock in the morning of Columbus.

Y. M. C. A. Drive Lacks $11,172.24 of Amount Needed

Thursday's Total of $2,088.55 Cheers Workers Who Are Determined That Drive Shall Not Fail—Dr. Michael Makes Appeal—Competition Continues Keen Between Teams and Divisions

At an enthusiastic and well attended report meeting Thursday night the Y. M. C. A. Campaigners turned in $2,088.55 for the day's work, making a grand total of $13,827.76. Passing the half way mark cheered the workers and they went out determined to get the $11,172.24 still needed. They expect to make a big splash in this amount at the report meeting tonight.

Team Five carried off the honors Thursday night and won the Spizzierinkum cup. The members of this team are: Thomas Rowland, captain, S. H. Peyer, C. S. Rowland, George Flemmings, John Monroe, Kenneth Kukuk, Charles Shultz and Frederick Meeker. Gordon A. Craig, captain of Team Eleven, declared his team would get it back tonight.

The Make Hay Division, led by Max L. Reben, claimed the division honors Thursday by turning in $118 more than any other division. This makes the race close between Reben's division and the Booster Division led by Chester A. Baltz.

Leading Cup Contenders

The Spizzierinkum Cup race has become very keen. Changes in the lineup occur every day. Just now Team Eleven is in the lead. The six leading cup contenders now are:

| Team | Captain | Amount |
|------|----------------|------------|
| 11 | O. A. Craig | $1,767.00 |
| 5 | Thos. Rowland | 1,508.00 |
| 4 | R. L. Marchant | 1,050.00 |
| 14 | W. H. Niles | 818.00 |
| 10 | H. B. Wesley | 730.00 |
| 19 | J. W. Scott | 730.00 |

Two stars were added to the Y. M. C. A. Spizzierinkum Cluster. Ernest LeBerte won the silver star and Sam Watts, the red star degree.

Dr. Michael Makes Appeal

Dr. M. J. Michael made a very eloquent appeal to the workers as to the high merit of the Y. M. C. A. Although very eloquent himself, he wished for the eloquence of a Wendell Phillips to fully tell how highly he regarded the work of the "Y" for the youth. He spoke particularly of the work done among high school boys. Words cannot tell, he said, the importance of this character building work among these boys who in another dozen years will be the men of influence and leadership in the city, state and nation.

High School Aids Flood Victims

The aggregate of a collection taken at Kingston High School today for the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers amounted to $55.51. The money was collected by the officials of the school banking system after a motion was made by the student body in assembly Thursday morning that a donation for the good cause be made.

Mention was made by one of the team workers that four boys had each subscribed $10 toward this fund. Another worker told how subscriptions were brought to his office. General Secretary Porter noted that every day subscriptions are mailed to the Y. M. C. A. by people not solicited.

Thursday's music, presented by the Messrs. Paul Zucca, Sam Scudder and George Ribble, was greatly enjoyed.

Paris Beacons Ordered Lighted

Reasonably Fair Weather Predicted When Lindbergh Arrives Over France—Express Admiration For His Courage

Paris, May 20 (AP)—All the air beacons from the coast to Paris have been ordered lighted tomorrow to show Captain Lindbergh his way to the French Capital.

The world's greatest searchlight, atop Mount Valerian, outside Paris, will flash a beam that on clear nights is visible for approximately 200 miles.

The American ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, was informed by The Associated Press of Lindbergh's start eight minutes after the plane rose from Roosevelt Field. Mr. Herrick is calling together various persons interested in organizing a suitable welcome to the lone aviator.

Reasonably fair weather is predicted for Lindbergh when he arrives over France. There may be some fog, says the weather bureau in a general report, but the probabilities are that he will meet with a slight northwest wind regarded as most favorable, with generally fine weather.

According to reports reaching the weather office from ships at sea and the other side of the Atlantic, the only unfavorable spot is a depression over the Gulf of St. Lawrence. High pressure areas, known technically as "anti-cyclones" extend over the Atlantic as far as Iceland.

The aviator should not go too far north, however, for low pressure will prevail during the morning in the region directly south of Greenland and southwest of Iceland.

The young American's hope is characterized by the afternoon papers as a most assiduous attempt. The fact that he is navigating by compass, sitting in an enclosed cockpit, evokes astonishment, and all the commentators express admiration for his courage.

Miss Shortell Hit by a Truck

Miss Margaret Shortell, 20 years old, of Sawkill, who is employed at the Jacobson shirt factory, was struck Thursday afternoon by a truck of the W. C. Schryver Lumber Company of Foxhall avenue, and driven by Jeremiah Benjamin of 120 Temper-avenue. She escaped with an injured leg but was able to walk to the factory.

According to Mr. Benjamin's report of the accident he was turning from Corbitt street into the U. & D. freight yard and was driving over the cross walk when the young woman crossed in front of the truck. She was knocked down but picked herself up and walked over to the Jacobson plant.

Lindbergh Hops Off on Non-stop Trip to Paris

"Lone Slim" in His Ryan Monoplane "Spirit of St. Louis" is Sighted Over Nova Scotia After Flying Through Fogs and Mist—Fairly Good Weather Reported in Newfoundland—Five Times Close to Disaster in Takeoff.

Youthful Flier's Mother Confident

Mrs. Lindbergh, Widow, Already Sees Her Son Landed in Paris—"Flying Fool" Again Merits His Name

New York, May 20 (AP)—Grinning his way into a great adventure in which two internationally famous aviators already have failed, Captain "Lucky" Lindbergh today tackled the most ambitious effort of his six year aeronautical career.

With the confidence of youth, the twenty-five year old flier started over the air trail on which Captains Nungesser and Gail, French aviators, were lost in their flight from Paris to New York.

Dapper and immaculate in the newest of aviation apparel, the young aviator started. Plane and its lone pilot seemed to reflect a gay challenge to the dangers of the 3,800 miles between New York and the French metropolis.

Disregarding the threatening weather just before dawn the "flying fool" again merited his name as he fulfilled his promise to start "the very minute that the clearing comes," regardless of whether "it's break fast, supper, dinner or the middle of the night."

He said he expected to reach Paris—and win the $25,000 prize of Raymond Orteig—in from thirty six to forty eight hours, dependent on flying conditions.

Instruments on a board in front of him will be the young aviator's sole guide. He can not see in front of his enclosed Ryan monoplane except through a periscope. He carried no wireless.

Lindbergh began his journey from San Diego, Cal., almost two weeks ago. Spanning the continent in two jumps in less than a day's flying time, he established a new record for trans-continental air travel.

Youngest of the trans-Atlantic contenders, Lindbergh is a post-war product of aviation. He was born at Detroit February 4, 1907.

At the age of nineteen he learned to fly at Lincoln, Neb. He soon completed a flying course in the army and was graduated with the reputation of being one of the best pilots in the service. Excursions with flying circuses followed. Then he entered the air mail service, piloting a plane between Chicago and St. Louis. In six years he spent 1,500 hours in the air.

His flight is being backed by a group of St. Louis business men. Probably the one person most anxious for his success is Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh

PINNED BY TONS OF STEEL, SWEARS AND DRINKS RUM

Imprisoned Brakeman Is Cheered by Liquor as Rescuers Labor to Release.

New York.—The Red Hook section of Brooklyn marveled the other day at the fortitude of Richard O'Connor, a railway brakeman who was pinned for several hours under 14,000 pounds of steel and emerged from the experience alive.
O'Connor was riding the cow catcher of a switch engine in the New York Dock company yards at the foot of Pioneer street, Red Hook, when the engine jumped the tracks and overturned a freight car loaded with steel girders. He was hurled forward under the freight car, with his back resting against the engine. Engineer James Burns and Fireman Stanley Rice heard "cuss words" coming from beneath the freight car and decided that O'Connor was not only alive but considerably annoyed.
Difficult Problem.
They tried to extricate him, but found the problem too difficult. When O'Connor scolded them for their delay, they scolded back at him in sociable fashion to keep his spirits up. Two patrolmen from the Hamilton avenue station joined them, but the four could make no progress. The fire department rescue squad came, saw, but failed to conquer. The jacks could not raise the freight car an inch.
Dr. Edwin Goebel brought an ambulance and a quantity of good whisky from Long Island college hospital. Dismissing the ambulance as a thing of secondary importance, O'Connor found that the liquor made his misfortune seem slighter at every drink. He then announced that he intended to finish the bottle before they got him out.
The rescuers had been heaving and panting, and decided that they too, could stand a drink. So the situation resolved into a race between them and O'Connor for the liquor.
A huge jack, improvised with timbers, began to lift the freight car slowly. O'Connor hurried with his drinks as the car was raised. With the bottle still unfinished, he was removed and taken to the Long Island college hospital, where he was said to have a good chance for recovery. He lives with his wife at Malverne, Long Island.

Wife Slain in Flat She Rented as Actress

San Francisco.—Mrs. Frances Elliston, twenty-five years old, pretty blonde wife of Roy Elliston, a local resident, was shot to death by an unidentified man in an apartment which she had rented under the name of "Miss F. (Tiny) Thomas." She had lived in the rented apartment a few days and had given the impression that she was an actress.
The shooting followed a terrific struggle for life, in which the woman struck her assailant on the left temple with a sugar bowl, inflicting a wound from which blood streamed as he escaped down the hall, waving a pistol and intimidating residents who tried to stop him. The woman's husband furnished police with clues expected to result in his capture. He also said the woman was on friendly terms with a man he did not know.

Faked Insanity Gains Liberty for Prisoners

Alamo, Tex.—For pure "hooker potius" Will Vaughn and James Logan, seagrass, who had been in the local jail on charges of larceny and housebreaking, seem to have carried away the prize.
About ten days ago Vaughn became a raving "maniac." County authorities had him committed and he was carried to Belvoir. A few days later Logan "threw a fit" also. He became so wild that it took several men to manage him. Striking at everybody near and biting his tongue, he was supposed to have been carried to the hospital for treatment.
Now comes the news that both have escaped from the Belvoir institution, and reliable information has been gathered that the whole proceedings with reference to their state of health was faked.

SPECIAL FOR DOLLAR DAY

WHAT SALLY SAW

I was just turning away from the window when my kld brother came tearing down the street. "Sally," he shouted, "C'mon up to Rose and Gorman's. Whole window full of Buddys Toys! Go!" So I was literally dragged up the street to see the wondrous display. And I found myself fully as enthusiastic as Bud—for that huge window was just full of those marvellous "Buddy L" toys. There was a wondrous hydraulic fire-engine with ladders that raise and lower; a concrete mixer that will mix anything from concrete down to mud-plex; a steam-shovel that was impressive in its genuineness; an ice truck, a coal truck, a mechanical dump truck! Do you wonder that I was fascinated,—Bud simply wild with joy and wonder,—and that both of us stood there for fully half an hour in open-mouthed amazement? SALLY.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY, 20, 1927.

After bending all Italy to his imperial will Mussolini seems to have wanted to tackle something worthy of his powers. At any rate he has undertaken to reduce the cost of living

Although 40,000 motor-driven craft of all types are being used for rescue work in the Mississippi valley, and these are assisted by scouting airplanes, it is reported that more are needed to cope with the vastness of the calamity.

The "deepest spot in the ocean bed"—31,210 feet down—is said to have been discovered by the new German cruiser Emden while voyaging between the Celebes Islands and Japan. One of the deepest, perhaps, but who has ever investigated every acre of the seven seas?

Now they're going to make the Potomac River behave. A combination of engineers, lawyers and capitalists has asked for federal permission to build two great dams and reservoirs a few miles above Washington, D. C., impounding and controlling an enormous volume of water in the flood season, when it roars down from the Appalachians and Blue Ridge Mountains, and feeding it thrifly through hydro-electric power stations. It is expected that about 300,000 horsepower will be developed from water now going to waste and occasionally going on a rampage. Navigation will be promoted, according to a plan which is said to have originated with George Washington, who as a young man did considerable surveying in those parts. Historic Harper's Ferry is the center of the project. Now, everybody will say, if that could only be done with the mighty Mississippi. Perhaps we shall get that task done, too, in time.

PASSING OF OLD KENTUCKY.

Thousands of sport-loving Americans gathered at Louisville to witness the fifty-second running of the Kentucky Derby, the greatest turf event in this country. The crowds that flocked to the races were as merry and absorbed in the sport as ever, and perhaps few remembered the cloud on their horizon, although that cloud has already reached threatening proportions. The preceding Baptist convention in Louisville had solemnly issued the following statement: "Next Saturday the sporting and lawless element will be gathered here from all parts of the world. From this scourge the good people of this city and state have long sought deliverance." The attracted "sporting and lawless element," including the Mayor of New York and other distinguished persons and all contributing to the "scourge," might have dismissed this as a narrow-minded view of a minority of the population, but this is not the whole of the matter.

It seems that the majority of Kentucky newspapers have been convinced that the celebrated Kentucky Derby is an evil and a menace, and that both Democratic and Republican solons have marked it for doom at the next legislative session. It appears that even the Courier-Journal, formerly dominated by the brilliant and genial Henry Watterson, is on the side of the stern suppressors of a sport in itself innocent and wholesome enough. These are changed times in Kentucky. Marne Henry is dead, prohibition has come, and even the races must go. Truly the gloomy reformers are on the rampage.

INDIFFERENCE NO VIRTUE.

Westerners who go to New York for a "good time" and then go home to tell the folks about all the wickedness they hunted up may be somewhat interested in the following extract from a recent after dinner speech of the Mayor of the "modern Babylon":

The people from the great open spaces laugh at the concerted terrorism born in the city who have never seen a whole of crime and don't know what a new look like except from the pictures. But I, for one, would not lightly either live in these same open spaces where tolerance exists, where people of all different faiths live together and work together, then turn myself to those wide open spaces where the sun shines bright, where the air is pure, and where an atmosphere of religious bigotry and intolerance prevails. It is true that New Yorkers learn early to put up with many kinds of people and a great variety of opinions, while in the region of great open spaces and cows only a certain standardization both in people and opinions meets approval. But perhaps the "religious bigotry" of the West is less noticeable in New York mainly because of the greater lack of religious conviction with its consequent indifference. Bigotry and intolerance are a menace to freedom and otherwise harmful, but they at least have a more substantial basis than indifference, which at the best is something less than even a negative virtue. The West deserves Mayor Walker's criticism, but he is not quite convincing in his claims for the superior virtues of New York.

DIAGNOSING GALL STONES.

It is not so long ago that the examination for gall stones was done by the use of the barium meal, which casts a dark shadow, the shape of the gall bladder. Any change in the shape of the gall bladder, or the outline of the stones themselves was the proof of the presence of stones.

Unfortunately unless these stones had a certain percentage of lime in them they would not appear on the film.

After thousands of these examinations it was found that only a small percentage of gall stones were visible by this method of examination, according to figures supplied by Dr. J. T. Case of Battle Creek.

Of course this was of some help because that number at least could have adequate surgical treatment.

However the new dye system now in use, is giving results that are now 95 to 98 per cent correct.

This dye method, using an iodine or bromine combination, is injected into the vein of arm (or can be given by the mouth) at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The patient is allowed to eat his evening meal as usual at 6 o'clock, but must avoid fats, meats or eggs, confining himself to fruits, rice, potatoes, lemonade.

Before breakfast next morning, at 8 o'clock, fourteen or fifteen hours after the injection, films are taken of the region of the gall bladder, the upper right side of abdomen.

The patient is allowed to eat his breakfast which must include milk, cream, or egg yolk.

Films are taken again three and a half hours after breakfast. If the gall bladder is normal in appearance, that is outlined with a smooth normal shape, then the test is "negative," and no stones or serious disease is present.

If no shadow appears at all then the test is positive, and gall stones or some inflammation, growth, or obstruction is suspected.

When the outline of the gall bladder is normal in size, shape, and position, but is slow in disappearing after a meal with milk or fats, showing that the gall bladder doesn't empty as fast as it should, then catarrhal inflammation of the gall bladder is suspected, which may or may not need surgical interference.

However the big point is that this injection of the dye is not dangerous, doesn't interfere with the regular routine of life, and yet you and your doctor are put in possession of information that will decide future treatment.

It may, as I said once before, mean more operations but only because your doctor is now more certain that stones are present, whereas in the past he hesitated to have you undergo an unnecessary operation.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

May 20, 1907.—Mrs. William Schultze found dead of apoplexy in her garden on Kingston street.

Max and Philip Dimont bought the Watson Hotel at Pine Hill.

Mayor A. W. Thompson resigned owing to ill health.

May 20, 1917.—Mrs. Harry Simon and Mrs. Jack Margolis injured when run into by motorcycle ridden by William Diehl of Newburgh which ran up on the sidewalk, knocking the women down.

Samuel Friedman, formerly of this city, died of blood poisoning in Ontario.

Mrs. Cornelius DeMond of Hurley injured when thrown from her carriage on Lucas avenue. She was attempting to turn her horse around and in backing, the wagon tipped over.

For all practical purposes a man can be said to be immortal as soon as some persons have taken the trouble to write books emphasizing the point that he didn't amount to much.

A Danish explorer is heading for the Arctic to investigate the origin of the Eskimos. If a few more white men set the Arctic to go up there, it is more likely to result in the Eskimo's death.

The grum-dumping party over in the corner is the one who has just been taken up for the first time on his gravestone that if everything isn't perfectly satisfactory your money will be cheerfully refunded.

The role of the A. E. F. on beer-selling soldiers called "Sambo" was a nothing beside the promise of the Northwestern Mounted Police when the report was back that the "moo" industry now calls them "mounties."

DAILY LESSONS IN ENGLISH.

By W. L. Gordon.

Words often misused. Don't say "a large supply of books were received". Say "was received".

Often mispronounced: idealism; accent after the e, not after the i. Often misspelled: arraign, two r's. Synonyms: mediator, peacemaker, intercessor, negotiator, diplomat, diplomatist.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: Acute, keenly discerning or sensitive. "Her very acute sense of touch noticed that something was wrong."

Mark Twain's Rocking Chair

Humorist's Study Near Elmhurst, Where Many of His Famous Books Were Produced, Remains His Rocker and Other Mementos.

Elmhurst, N. Y., May 16 (AP).—Mark Twain's rocking chair still stands near the fireplace in Owl's Nest, the humorist's study on Quarry Farm, a mile from here.

The greater part of "Roaming in" was written at the farm in 1871 before the study was built, but Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn and Colonel Sellers, strode from its single door into the world of literature. Here also was written "The Prince and the Pauper," "A Tramp Abroad," "Life on the Mississippi," "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," "Tales for Good Old Boys and Girls," and lastly, "A Dog's Tale."

From the broad verandah of the farm house eighteen mountain tops can be seen to the south. At every point of the compass hills greet the eye, while the Chenung river picks its way lastly through the valley below. Across the highway can be seen the roof of the cottage where Lyman Beecher, brother of Henry Ward Beecher, lived during his long pastorate at Park Church.

Near the farm house is a gentle hill in which Mark Twain claimed a proprietary interest, and upon its top, in 1874, his study was built. It is an eight-sided building. The door and six sides are of glass; the eighth side is occupied by the fireplace. The interior has been left much the same as when the author used it, and the rocker is flanked by a couch piled with pillows, as though it were awaiting his return.

The study is quite apart from life on the farm, and is a Samuel Clemens' study, the absolute quiet he said he needed to do his best work. Under the eaves, walls, myrtle and daisy, the room is not, and the windows look out upon a view, hills and many other scenes the humorist loved.

Collected Cats and Kittens.

The property was owned by Mrs. Clemens' sister, Mrs. Susan Langdon Crane, and to Quarry farm, Mark Twain came each year. Invaluable, upon his arrival, he collected a number of cats and kittens, regardless of pedigree, and these shared with him the quiet, roomy study during his working hours. When he left in the fall, he took the time to find a home for each of his feline collaborators.

After the death of Mrs. Clemens, the author's visits to Elmhurst were confined to short stays at the Langdon home in the city.

A few rods from Owl's Nest, a pavilion has been erected for the convenience of tourists. On another hill a great open fireplace and chimney have been built, with a sleeping pavilion adjacent, open always to Boy Scouts and to visitors who first seek permission at the farmhouse to visit the grounds.

In the big stuccoed dwelling are many mementoes of Clemens among them an oil painting which his relatives say will portray the author when life for him was at its height. On the road leading to the farm are three watering troughs which he erected in memory of his children, Langdon, Olive and Jean Clemens. In the basins water always bubbles clear and cold, from the spring that supplies the farm.

Old London Monument.

A monument at London was erected to commemorate the great fire of 1666. It was designed by Sir Christopher Wren, the famous architect, whose masterpiece is St. Paul's cathedral and whose other beautiful but smaller churches are to be found in many parts of older London. The monument stands near the north end of London bridge.

ST. MARY'S MEN TO MEET AND ARRANGE FOR RALLY

Tonight at 8 o'clock a meeting will be held in St. Mary's School Hall to which every man of the parish is invited as the plans to be carried out for the mammoth Holy Name Rally in the Yankee Stadium, New York city, on Sunday, May 22, will be transmitted by the Rev. Francis X. FitzPatrick, regional director of the Holy Name Societies of Ulster county. Tickets will be given out, admitting the bearers to the Yankee Stadium, on the day of the rally. Without tickets no one will be admitted to the stadium as the seats have been reserved for ticket holders. It is expected that railroad tickets and ferry tickets will be sold at the meeting tonight in order to prevent confusion in boarding the boat and train.

Orders concerning the formation of a line of march when the societies reach High Bridge Station will also be discussed. As far as known the societies from Ulster county will line up as follows: St. Mary's, St. Joseph's, St. Peter's, Immaculate Conception, all of this city; St. Mary's of Saugerties and a contingent formed of representatives of smaller parishes throughout the county. The Rev. Father FitzPatrick of St. Mary's parish this city, has named the following men as officials: Marshal, William R. Johnson, St. Mary's parish, Saugerties; assistant marshal, David L. Long, St. Mary's; John F. Nelson, St. Joseph's; and Elias J. Campbell, Immaculate Conception of Kingston.

Early American Bottles

Metal molds were used in making the first American bottles, which were quaint in design and more often than not colored. Inscriptions, rough bottoms and uneven necks characterized these early products. The necks of mouths were uneven because the glass was cut with shears while still in a molten state.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Saturday, May 21.

Just as all kinds of it with all sorts of instruments, from the big bass viol which growls as musically as a bull frog on a swampy spring night, to the mellow old strings whined search for voice trachea ones very soul and clings there; will be on the air Saturday night. This harmonious program opens through WEAF when the Harmonic Jubilees entertain. Immediately afterward the famous Philomela Choral Club will present one of their splendidly rendered concert for the benefit of those who listen in a WNYC. At the same time WJZ will present a program of symphonized music arranged by Keith McLeod opening with "Love's Old Sweet Song" and ending with a "Hebrew Irish Rhapsody." WJZ will give their listeners the opportunity of hearing the Kensington Commandery, No. 64, Knights Templar Band and WOR will feature the Y. M. H. A. string orchestra which will play a number of classical selections. Late in the evening the audience will be pleasantly brought down from the clouds by a prize fight resume between Jimmy Wilde and Pancho Villa in which they will fight for the featherweight championship of the world. This last is a regular feature of the twin stations WGN-WLIB.

Wave lengths in meters on left of station. Kilocycles on the right. Times are Eastern Daylight Saving and Eastern Standard. Black type indicates best features.

CAPITAL CITY MADE TO ORDER

Step Taken by Australian Government Parallels
That of U. S.

Washington.—“By moving into a capital city made out of hand, where no town existed before, the Australian government has taken a step closely parallel to that taken by the United States in the summer of 1900, when the seat of government was moved from one of its greatest cities, Philadelphia, into a virtual wilderness,” says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. “Canberra, the federal city, was formally dedicated by the duke of York on May 9, and the Australian parliament began deliberations in the new capital on the same date.

“A century and a quarter has seen a great advance in the art of capital-city building,” concludes the bulletin; “and although the residents of Canberra will find their capital, as early Washingtonians found theirs, a city made up in large part of ‘magnificent distances,’ at least they will have the organized comforts of modern community life such as the infant Washington could not know. One of the first things done at Canberra was to start work on a water supply system. The first unit of this has long been completed. Next, both military and storm sewers were constructed; and only a little later a powerhouse was built, and a railway was extended to an existing line. There are some good streets in Canberra in place of the rude trails and muddy paths by which the American congressmen of 125 years ago found their way through thickets and across morasses between the capitol and the White House.

“The federal territory in which the new Australian capital is situated, was set apart for the purpose in December, 1900. It is near the southeastern corner of the continent close to its center of population. The territory contains 912 square miles and so is 13 times the size of the present District of Columbia.

Plans Chosen by Contest.
 “Australia’s new capital is to be an inland and upland city. It lies some 70 miles from the ocean, behind the dividing range of mountains that skirts the coast. It is nearly 200 miles southwest of Sydney and about 300 miles northeast of Melbourne. The site chosen for the city was formerly a sheep station or ranch, an undulating upland plain with an altitude of about 1,800 feet. Scattered about are isolated hills rising 300 feet or more, while across the plain flows a small river, the Molonglo. It is in a latitude corresponding roughly to that of Chattanooga, Tenn., or Asheville, N. C.

“A world-wide contest was launched by Australia in 1911 for the submission of plans for her made-to-order capital. The first prize was won by an American, the second by a Finn, and the third by a Frenchman. The plan which has been taking shape in the Australian hills in recent years follows the American design in general, but has been modified to include some of the good points of the other winning plans, as well as changes considered necessary by the commission-ers and engineers who have been entrusted with the building of the city.

“A commanding eminence south of the river was chosen as the site for the permanent capital, and about this blocks are arranged in a great circle. Lesser circles of blocks impinge upon this Capitol circuit, or exist at a distance, connected by radial avenues. North of the river, on a similar hill, a university will be built.

“Australians have profited by the errors of other capital builders, and have provided against the ‘Topsylike’ propensity of cities to ‘just grow,’ as did Washington during a certain era of its existence. No lots or areas in the district will be sold outright. Instead 99-year leases will be given, with reappraisal of values every 10 years. The leases will pay rent amounting to 5 per cent on the appraised values. By withholding leases in certain sections of the city and granting them in others, the commission of three men in charge of Canberra can control its growth. The commission also requires that no structure be erected until the plans for it have received official approval.

Dream City to Grow Slowly.

“About $25,000,000 has been expended so far toward the development of Canberra, but it still lacks much of having the appearance of a city or even of a town such as Americans or Europeans are used to. This is because the commission resolutely set about districting the future city. It now has the appearance, therefore, of a group of villages scattered over a plain. Australia is willing to bring its dream city into existence slowly. As an example, the parliament buildings are considered to be ‘temporary’ structures; yet they will probably be used for several generations before being superseded by a permanent edifice on the site reserved for it.

“A definite system of physical development is being followed. The center of the city will be given over to public buildings, parks and lakes. Off to itself is the nucleus of the shopping district; elsewhere is a modified industrial area for industries, cold storage and the like. At a distance the district for inexpensive homes already has its services of small businesses. The sections for more pretentious residences lie off in another direction. So the city is being shaped.”

Mrs. Luther Deyo, who has resided in this village a number of years, is giving up her home here and preparing to remove to Shokan.

The Rev. Lewis Davies, who preached at the Baptist Church on Sunday, was entertained at the home of the Rev. David Gendries on Tuesday night after the week end.

Announcement

Since we purchased the Robinson Jewelry Store, Opera House Building Corner, combining three stores into this one big corner store we have had such tremendous success that we have found it necessary to reopen our former MIDGET JEWELRY SHOP, 40 John street, to be known as THE KINGSTON WATCH & REPAIR SHOP.

This became imperative that our large clientele may benefit by prompt service, thus assuring immediate deliveries.

No waiting for your watch and clock repairing.

State Odd Fellows Meet at Auburn

Auburn, N. Y., May 20 (P).—For the first time in a quarter of a century Auburn next week plays host to the state convention of the Encampment Branch of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. The dates are May 23 to 25, inclusive.

More than 200 delegates are expected to arrive Monday for registration at Hardenburgh Lodge Temple. The grand officers' dinner will be held at 6 o'clock that evening in the Osborne Hotel, with addresses by several notables.

The first public meeting is scheduled for 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in Hardenburgh Temple. The visitors will be welcomed by Grand Representative Edgar S. Mosher, chairman of the local committee; Mayor Roy A. Weld, Congressman John Taber, William B. Haefner, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Nellie Barber for the Rebekahs.

Business is to get under way at 10 o'clock, and during this session women visitors will be taken for automobile rides through the Finger Lakes country by Auburn Rebekahs. The visitors will be luncheon guests of the Rotary Club. The speakers at this event are Grand Representatives Lewis G. Stapley of Albany and H. Dorsey Etchinson of Dorsey, Md. The afternoon will be given over to inspection of Auburn prison. Grand officers and delegates will be guests at a complimentary dinner in the Osborne Hotel in the evening and the visitors later will attend a meeting and degree exemplification of Hardenburgh Lodge, to be followed by dancing.

Wednesday morning will be given over to business. At noon the delegates will be luncheon guests of the Kiwanis Club, with Senator Caleb H. Baumes as the principal speaker. Automobile trips will occupy the afternoon and the convention will close at night with a meeting of Ensenore Lodge.

SCHOOL NO. 4 P-T-A. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 4 was held on Tuesday afternoon.

It was voted to donate $10 to the relief fund for the Mississippi flood victims. It was also voted to purchase two modern pedagogical works for the school library for the use of the teachers, leaving it to the decision of the teachers as to what particular works should be chosen.

Mrs. Oscar Goodsell gave a report of the morning session of the spring conference of the Poughkeepsie district held at Cornwall-on-Hudson last Saturday and Miss Irene Goodsell reported on the afternoon session.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. R. H. Van Valkenburgh; vice president, Mrs. Oscar Goodsell; secretary, Miss Winifred M. Sullivan; treasurer, Mrs. George Kent. A rising vote of thanks was given the outgoing president and vice president, also to the re-elected secretary and treasurer, for their efficient work during the past year.

DUBS PUEBLO CITY ATHENS OF INDIAN

Explorer Describes Glories of New Mexican Ruins.

Washington.—Pueblo Bonito, four-story apartment house settlement in New Mexico, was the Athens of the Southwest 1,000 years ago. The artistry and skill of the Indians who made this masterpiece of primitive, civil engineering were described recently before the National Academy of Sciences by Neil M. Judd, curator of American archeology at the United States museum, who has directed excavations at Pueblo Bonito during the last six years.

The excavations, which have been conducted under the auspices of the National Geographic society, have revealed that this Indian city went through four major periods of building activity, and two distinct groups of similar yet unrelated Indians were responsible for the prodigious construction projects, Mr. Judd said.

"Those of the first group," he said, "dwelt for several generations in their moon-shaped pueblo before the second group arrived, presumably by invitation, and introduced superior architectural and cultural practices that quickly won for Pueblo Bonito pre-eminence among all contemporaneous villages north of Mexico. All archeological evidence shows these two Indian peoples to have been entirely distinct and independent from each other. And yet they dwelt side by side and lived the same sort of life in the same terraced town."

First Group Conservatives.

The first residents of the community were conservatives and built small low-ceilinged rooms with rough sandstone slabs, adding on rooms as their families increased without any plan of regularity or design. The second group which came into the community set to work to build orderly dwellings, with the skill of master craftsmen, though they had no metal tools or beasts of burden.

The newcomers first erected dwellings of hand-dressed stone, Mr. Judd explained, and filled the spaces between the stones with small chips or spalls. Later, however, they evolved a more artistic masonry by laying the large dressed blocks in horizontal bands. And, finally, they found that laminate sandstone with uniform, natural cleavage, required much less reshaping, and yet made more secure, equally attractive walls than did the softer, irregular blocks, which must be squared with stone hammers before replacement.

While the late comers developed three outstanding types of masonry the old original settlers continued to build in the crude and more hazardous fashion of piling up stone, bequeathed to them by their ancestors.

Pueblo Bonito had nearly 800 rooms and sheltered between 1,200 and 1,500 individuals, Mr. Judd states. Archeological evidence points to its abandonment more than 1,000 years ago.

The last season's work at the prehistoric pueblo centered chiefly on the architecture of the structure. Mr. Judd expects to return to Pueblo Bonito within a few weeks, in order to complete his reports of the project.

Tells What Moon's Made Of.

What the moon is made of, favorite mystery ever since the days when it was supposed to be made of green cheese, is more nearly being answered than ever before. The studies of Dr. F. E. Wright of the geophysical laboratory of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, which he described the other day, indicate that the surface of the moon consists of such rock as pumice and granite, with no basalt. And as basalt is almost invariably associated with volcanic activity as far as we know, this is rather a jolt to the theory that the moon was once the scene of vast volcanic activity, producing the craters that are such a familiar feature of its surface.

Doctor Wright is a member of a joint committee of astronomers, geologists and geophysicists of the Carnegie Institute of Washington that is investigating the moon.

First Men Carved Gods

as Images of Women

Denver, Colo.—The first images of gods carved out by primitive men everywhere seem to have been feminine deities, says Dr. E. R. Rensand of the University of Denver.

Four little clay figurines found in Arizona show that prehistoric American Indians carved feminine fetiches just as stone-age cavemen of Europe did, when they began to copy the human form.

Two very primitive figurines were found in the Canyon del Muerto by Earl Morris while conducting research for the American Museum of Natural History, said Doctor Rensand. These rare prehistoric fetiches are in the museum of the University of Colorado.

The other two statuettes, more decorated, were found also in Arizona by Dr. Byron Cummings of the University of Arizona, and are now being exhibited in the museum of that university.

Fine-grained and full-flavored!

It's fine-grained and tender because it is selected from the choicest of fresh young porker meat. It's savory because it is cured to a mellow mildness, smoked to an appetizing fragrance. No wonder it's so much better than the ordinary kind. The wonder is that it costs no more than "just ham." It pays to say "Morris Supreme" when you're buying ham.

Elks Aiding in Work for Children

The New York State Department of Education, cooperating with the State Department of Health and such civic and social agencies as Elks, Masonic and Rotary Clubs, are launching forth on a concerted effort to provide for the physical care and education of the physically-handicapped children in New York state. These agencies have recognized the urgent need for such a program as the result of the efforts made by private organizations in various communities. While much was accomplished in this way it was soon demonstrated that the work, in order to be enlarged in scope, should be placed under the direction of the state.

Through the enactment of state legislation it is now possible for all children in New York state who are physically handicapped to receive proper treatment in their community. The judge of the children's court is empowered to issue orders for the care of physically-handicapped children which includes surgical, medical or therapeutic treatment or hospital care and necessary appliances and devices. He may also provide for their education by ordering home-teaching, transportation, scholarships in non-residence schools, tuition or maintenance and tuition in elementary, secondary or special technical schools. This service is being rendered in order that as many of these children as is humanly possible may be trained to become useful citizens in their respective communities.

Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. Elks, is actively engaged in helping to carry out this program. Additional information on this subject may be secured through Charles J. Mullen, secretary of their committee on social and community welfare or by writing direct to Crippled Children's Bureau, State Department of Education, Albany, N. Y.

High Cost of Dying

A colored man came into a ticket office and asked for two round-trip tickets to Charleston. The agent knew him and asked who was going with him.

"My brother," said the colored man. "Your brother?" asked the agent.

"Where is he?"

"Out there in a box. He's dead," answered the colored man.

"Well, if he is dead you don't want a return ticket for him."

"Yes, suh," said the colored man; "You see, we ain't goin' to bury him in Shalston; but we have about forty kinsfolks down there, and we figured it would be cheaper to carry him down to Shalston to de funeral service and bring him back, than to bring the whole family up here."

Fight Indian Usurers

To protect the poor of India from a form of usury which not only binds the borrower for life, but also ties up his sons and grandsons, the Young Men's Christian association is establishing banks in that country. More than 400 have been established in towns and villages by D. Swamidos, the native secretary, and more are being added. Representatives of the association visit the places and, as they have no offices, conduct their business under mango trees. In order to combine their campaign of hygiene and finance, Young Men's Christian association officials often compel an applicant to open the windows of his home or to wash her dirty baby before the loan is made.

Sounds That Soar

In common with an investigation of city traffic noises in London, interesting tests were made to determine how high some of the sounds are carried, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The measurements were made from a balloon, as an airplane would have drowned out all other noises than that of its engine. Rumble of vehicles was heard as high as 2,500 feet, while the whistle of a locomotive was audible at an altitude of a mile and a half. A gunshot carried 5,400 feet high, and music was distinguished at a height of 4,200 feet. The investigators were surprised to discover that the croaking of frogs could be heard over half a mile above the ponds.

Fox and Terrier Battle

Followers of the Bleacathra fox-hounds witnessed a unique incident when, in Tew, Craig, in the Naddle valley of England, a hard-pressed fox took refuge on a rock ledge in the face of the precipitous crag, out of reach of hounds and men. The whiff of the terrier, however, crept to this fastness, and for fully two minutes fox and dog inflicted punishment on each other. The fox, crouching against the wall of the rock, suffered most, and leaped out of the crag. The terrier following, missed its footing and fell 40 feet, but, alighting in deep snow, escaped serious injury. The fox was afterward killed by members of the hunting party.

Hard to Stop Cock Fights

How to clear the Philippines of the increasing number of cock fights is a problem puzzling those who wish to stop the sport that is now flourishing in many parts of the islands. One plan recently advanced is to introduce counter sports to draw the interest of the young from the cockpits. Those who have immediately say that cock fighting is the only form of amusement in the rural communities, and that those who follow it do not do so for the sake of gambling so much as for the association with other men, and thus the cockfight is really the community club.

Faithful Mongrel Finds His Way, 45 Miles, Home

Milwaukee.—Mickey is only a four-year-old mongrel dog, but under his yellow coat beats a heart whose life is loyalty to his master, William Rose Jr., eight. Two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Rose and William went to Wauwatosa, Wis., taking Mickey with them. Leaving him there with friends, they returned to their home here and thought they were 24 of the mongrel. But Mickey is back home. The dog found his way, somehow, over the distance of 45 miles, which he never before had traversed.

Open Meeting Of Federation

At the regular executive committee meeting of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs held at the Kingston City Library on Thursday afternoon an invitation was extended to all members of the Federation to attend the last open meeting of the season, which will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the Y. W. C. A. on Henry street. At that time officers for the ensuing year will be elected and it is hoped that there will be many of the Federation women present to speed the outgoing and welcome the new officers. Following the routine business on Thursday afternoon, it was voted to contribute $5 to the Mississippi Flood Relief Fund through the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Harry B. Walker and Mrs. Sam M. Watts were appointed an auditing committee to audit the treasurer's books and report at the open meeting on Saturday.

Mrs. Reed, chairman of the good government committee of the Federation, reported concerning the special meeting of the common council and its zoning committee, held at the city hall last Tuesday evening, to which the good government committee and Federation women were invited.

A motion was passed recommending to the incoming administration that the Federation undertake a lecture course of two or three lectures next year. After some discussion relative to the desirability of amending the Federation constitution, the meeting adjourned.

All Federation women are urged to attend the annual meeting at the Y. W. C. A. on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Wife Raids Cigar Box; Chastisement Upheld

Atlantic City, N. J.—A husband has full control over his cigars and his wife may not molest them. It was decided here by Magistrate Andrew Jacoby. Charged with assault and battery, Duco Johnson was haled into court by his wife. She testified that during a party at their home she distributed cigars from a box her husband had "selfishly hidden," and that he then struck her. Other testimony indicated that this began a general melee, in which husband, wife and guests took part.

Magistrate Jacoby dismissed the charge because Johnson was "as badly battered as his wife" and because "a man's cigars are his inviolable property, to do with as he wishes."

BOY SWIMS FLOOD TO SAVE MARINES

Brings Warning of Damaged Bridge in Time.

St. Louis.—Garland Bowman, seventeen-year-old high-school student, swam a swollen creek and likely saved a Missouri-Kansas-Texas train, carrying several hundred marines en route to San Diego, Cal., from accident. It is announced at the company's offices.

The youth, at about 5:45 a. m., discovered a portion of the track had been washed away between Walnut and Fort Scott, Kan. He swam the swollen creek which had done the damage and ran to inform a station agent near Walnut. The train carrying the troops had just left Hepler, the last stop before Walnut. The railroad man and Bowman raced up the track. "ur they saw the headlight of the approaching train and realized they could not gain the other side of the creek before the train did. They lighted their flares and waved them; the locomotive slowed down and stopped just before it reached the washout.

Earlier in the morning the engineer and fireman of a southbound M. K. T. train were drowned and 18 persons were injured a short distance away, but on a different route from where the marine train danger was averted. The accident was caused by the overflow of Flat creek. Some time later a northbound train, rerouted because of the wreck, was wrecked a short distance south, and on the same line from where the marine train was halted. Flat creek also caused the trouble at this place. There were no serious injuries.

Knitting Woman Juror Makes Britons Gasp

London.—May women knit while serving as jurors in court?

One woman has already done it in Justice Avory's court, to the consternation of antifeminists, and there does not seem to be any way to stop the practice. The middle-aged woman who established a precedent took off her hat in a businesslike manner when she entered the jury box, produced her knitting and went to work.

She listened attentively to the proceedings, looking up from time to time when something interested her especially. It was clear that she was following the proceedings carefully, so there was no opening to charge her with inattention.

On another occasion a woman juror passed chocolates to other women who were serving on the jury. This was done discreetly and no judicial notice was taken of the act.

Women witnesses who were waiting to testify have frequently knitted in British courts, especially in war times, and no attempt has ever been made to stop this practice.

A Californian, writing to the home paper from England, rates the scenery of Devonshire the prettiest in the world. When that traveler returns home there will be no brass band at the station, but there may be a committee to demand an explanation of such a treacherous utterance.

When she sets the clock ahead it's you who are slow.

"Hello—Brown? I've repaired your brains; come over tonight and I'll put 'em back in."

"Well, Doctor, do you know anybody else who could use them? I've got a job now as advertising manager."

WORLD FAMOUS OLD SPARKLING HATHORN WATER

Saratoga's State Owned Natural Laxative Water

For many generations Hathorn water has been recognized as the most famous, gentle laxative that ever came bubbling up from nature's laboratory. Millions of people travel to Saratoga Springs to drink Hathorn at the springs, but many millions more now have it served in their homes every morning before breakfast. It is bottled under State supervision and in the exact form as it flows from the spring—nothing added, nothing taken away. Hathorn doesn't taste like medicine. It is pleasant and refreshing. It brings a sense of freedom and buoyancy. It starts the day with optimism and confidence.

Geyser is a delightful companion to Hathorn. Geyser is sparkling, delicious and refreshing, and most beneficial when taken with meals to neutralize acidity and prevent indigestion. It is remarkably effective at big banquets and dinners to counterbalance indiscreet eating. Geyser is also very useful taken in liberal quantities between meals to relieve rheumatic tendencies. COYOTES, HORSES AND DOGS HIT BY RABIES EPIDEMIC

Infected Animals Are Spreading Terror Among Residents in Certain Sections of Oregon.

Portland, Ore.—Tales of an epidemic which is making coyotes, dogs, horses and cattle attack people are coming into the local office of the United States biological survey from the little town of Ise, in eastern Oregon. A band of infected coyotes is spreading terror through the district. The situation has become so grave that skilled hunters have been dispatched to the region to try to wipe out the coyote population. The stockmen are working with them. The information that set wheels turning in the biological survey office came from the Grant county agent, who gathered all the ranchers' complaints together.

One farmer told how his two dogs had given their lives in saving him from the attack of a rabid coyote. He was working in his barn when a large animal entered. The telltale foam was dripping from its jaws. It rushed for the man. He saved himself by climbing to the rafters.

One dog leaped at the coyote and by degrees worked it out into the corral. Then another dog rushed in, and together they killed the maddened creature.

However, both were bitten in the fray and shortly afterward they turned on their master and had to be killed.

One of the weirdest tales is told of a Bear creek rancher. He was riding along near a fence one day when his mount began to act queerly. Suddenly it turned on its rider and tried to tear him with its teeth.

He escaped over the fence and the horse started after the dog which had been following. The dog got out of the way and then the horse tried to run through the barbed-wire fence. The farmer ran to his house and brought back a rifle and killed the horse. Tests showed that it had rabies.

Another stockman was attacked by a cow. The rabid animal rushed at his wagon and tried to get at him. He leaped to the ground and killed her with an iron bar. Still another man reported having killed three rabid steers.

Big Rattlesnake Joins Ranks of Broadcasters

Auburn, Ala.—In a cage on the second floor of Corner Agricultural hall here an exceptionally long-distance record in fasting is being made. It is not being done by a human being but by a rattlesnake.

The department of zoology and entomology, of which Prof. J. M. Robinson is in charge, is conducting the test, but unintentionally. The snake was caught near Auburn last October and placed in the cage. Since then he has been presented with rats, birds, and steak, none of which appeal to his appetite. He has steadfastly refused to eat a bite since the day he was put into the cage. He drinks a little water occasionally, but takes no other nourishment. He is now rounding out his sixth month of fasting.

While refusing to eat he also refuses to make friends. A little noise or a little disturbance around him puts his rattlers to work, warning the visitor of danger. He spends most of his time in a coil, ready to strike.

Soon after this rattlesnake became a fixture in the department of zoology and entomology officials of this department were lecturing over radio on snakes, and they used the rattlesnake to illustrate their lecture. It was distinct, he being perhaps the only snake ever heard over radio.

South Africa Bans Sale of Fake Curios

Cape Town, South Africa.—South Africa has taken steps to protect its visitors against dishonest curio sellers. In recent years, numbers of tourists have visited the Union and the government has realized that it is bad business to allow visitors to take away "fake" curios with them. So now all local chambers of commerce have been asked to collect genuine curios from the native territories and sell them to tourists.

Among the genuine curios of South Africa are grotesque wooden crocodiles, hippopotamuses, giraffes and other queerly shaped animals made by the natives of Bechuanaland. Zuluand produces wire curios, bangles, weird wire egg cups and candlesticks. Zulu ornaments made of beads, such as necklaces and anklets, are also much sought after by visitors.

Lorenz Pupils to Present Revue

The large number of pupils of Miss. Rosetta Lorenz are eagerly looking forward to the day when they will present their new extra-ordinary for the benefit of the Benedictine Hospital, which will receive a large share of the proceeds. The tentative date is set for Friday, June 24.

The Benedictine Hospital and Kingston Council No. 233, Knights of Columbus, will cooperate with Miss. Lorenz and everything points to one of the most successful affairs of this kind ever staged here. As the majority of the pupils are from Kingston, New Paltz and Saugerties a record attendance is expected to view the offering of the talented children. There will be dances of every type, including such features as toe, interpretative, folk, etc.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Following almost matchlessly perfect reception in the afternoon, Thursday evening was a matchlessly perfect example of weakness and blanketing. At times even WJZ was received in little better than a whisper. Suddenly at 10 o'clock, volume more than doubled. Half an hour later there was considerable radio noise. The west was gradually dead with the exception of WJZ, which, notwithstanding reduction in power, was one of the best stations on the air. WODA is back on 235 meters, WJZW, 222 meters, OH City, Pa., was one of the strong stations. Did you hear the new version of "Little Red Riding Hood" at WJZ? "What makes four eggs so big, grandma?" "The better to hear the radio, my dear." Also, did you hear the new version of "Alice, Where Art Thou?" The listener dare not print it, for few readers would be as shocked as he was.

"I'm down and out," said Porter, as he slipped through the gate of a ship.

—DOWNTOWN—

Expect Record Crowd Sunday at St. Louis Game

World Champions Will Bring 20 Players Here On Sunday—The Probable Colonial Lineup—Game Will Be Called at 8:30.

This much conjectured question among local baseball fans of whether the Colonials can again catch the St. Louis Cardinals napping and slip across a licking will be decided sometime Sunday afternoon. This time the illustrious Red Birds come to town with the World's Championship in their bat bags and eager to ovan up for their trimming of the 1926 campaign. Last season when the Colonials completed an almost impossible feat and trimmed the Cards 4 to 3 after thirteen sessions of diamond warfare, the Missourians were in the thick of the pennant race.

Arrive Sunday Morning

The St. Louis band, consisting of twenty-six players, will arrive from Boston around 9 o'clock Sunday morning via the West Shore R. R. Lou Brown, booking manager of the Colonials, has secured accommodation for the World's Champions at the Governor Clinton Hotel where they will dress for the game.

Game At 8:30

The game will start at the usual time, 8:30 o'clock. The Fair Grounds gates will open at about 1:30 in order to allow the vanguard of the large crowd anticipated to secure seats. In view of the fact it is the World's Champion club opposing the Colonials, nothing less than a packed ball park is expected. Twenty-seven hundred fans were stowed away within the Fair Grounds when the Pittsburgh Pirates appeared here last season. A crowd of the same number attended the Philadelphia-Colonial match in 1923. When Rogers Hornsby led the St. Louis Cardinals invasion to the up-town ball park last year, twenty-four hundred fans attended.

The entire Cardinal contingent will be on hand Sunday afternoon including such diamond celebrities as Frankie Frisch, Jim Bottomley, O'Farrell, Tommy Thoenow, Bill Southworth, Lester Bell, and the rest. Last season all the regulars started the game, being replaced by other players about the fifth or sixth frame. It will not be known who will do the twirling until just before the game.

Art Smith Coming

Art Smith, Colonial twirling ace, is scheduled to report to Manager Culliton and Robins some time Sunday. Art will arrive from New York city Sunday morning. However, until Bud Culliton arrives from New York tonight and goes in conference with his partner, Jack Robins, the Colonials' pitcher for the game will be unknown. Either Bud, himself, or Smith will oppose the Champions. Smith will be in shape for the twirling assignment if he is selected for he has pitched no games this week.

Colonial Lineup

The remainder of the Colonial lineup will be almost the same as used last Sunday against the Generals. The lineup will be as follows: Robins, c; O'Brien, 1b; Deegan, 2b; Middlebrook, 3b; Lottner, ss; Shay, lf; Kelly, cf; and McDermott, rf. Middlebrook will be used on third instead of Flannery.

If the fans witness as interesting a game as the Colonial-Cardinal contest last season turned out to be, there will be a highly excited lot of fans in the ball park. Twenty-four hundred fans nearly wild last year when Johnny Peters clouted out an ordinary hit to score Vince O'Brien and win the ball game. That was probably one of the best games ever played on Fair Grounds soil as the contest dangled back and forth between the Cards and the Kingstonians in these last innings.

Strong Teams Booking K. of C.

The Kingston Knights of Columbus Baseball Club, which so successfully last year met with much glory on the field, have again many bookings by the leading semi-pro outfits in this part of the state.

The local Knights will play their first game of the season on "Decoration Day" at Oneonta, inaugurating the opening of the Baseball Season at the place. The Knights are to play a double-header on this particular day, one game in the morning and one in the afternoon. Last season, the local boys trimmed Oneonta in the morning tilt by the score of 8 to 0 and then lost the afternoon contest by the score of 8 to 6.

Port Jervis, always represented by a fast ball club, has secured the Knights for June 19 in the battle between these two teams last season, the locals came out the victor in a ten inning battle by the score of 2 to 1.

The Great Barrington, Mass. Ball Club who has heard a great deal about the local Knights has given them a date the latter part of June. Manager Quinn of the local club has several other bookings under consideration and as soon as details are completed, the bookings will be made known.

The Knights will present themselves at Oneonta with new uniforms of gray with navy blue trimming, solid navy blue cap, with stocking design similar to that worn by the New York Giants. The uniforms were ordered through William O'Reilly, popular sporting goods dealer, and agent for Spalding baseball equipment. The new outfits will afford the Casey's a dandy and snappy appearance.

Women's Tennis August 22

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

The invading eastern wing of the American League and the defending westerners had the satisfaction today that comes of a job well done. Forced into undisputed possession of the major league spotlight for the day when the rain blotted out the national pastimes in the east, the American Leaguers bore manfully to the task of furnishing the nation's fandom with baseball entertainment through four interesting struggles.

Most interesting was the relief work of Wilcy Moore, lanky Oklahoma farmer, who seems destined to pitch all late innings for the New York Yankees unless the hurling staff of the league leaders takes a brace. Wilcy was hauled from the bull pen again yesterday, this time to go to the mound in the second inning to relieve Shocker after Cleveland had tied the score at 3-all.

Wilcy held the enemy in subjection until the ninth and when his mates seemed to be doing nothing about winning the game for him, he laid down a sacrifice to score Dugan from third and clinch the verdict, 4 to 2. Lou Gehrig's ninth homer of the season, tying Babe Ruth's total, accounted for two Yank scores in the first frame.

Hollis Thurston, Washington right-hander, plastered Detroit with the Tigers first shutout of the season 3 to 0.

Topper Rigney, once a Detroit shortstop, single handed gave Hollis all the help he needed by driving in two runs and scoring the third himself.

Chicago's young pitching ace, Tommy Thomas, turned in the second shut out of the day and his sixth win of the season by blanking Philadelphia 3 to 0. The White Sox managerial alumni were out in force, with Eddie Collins and Kid Gleason watching from the Atlantic fold and Clarence Rowland from an umpire's berth as the incumbent, Ray Schaik did his "master minding." Ty Cobb, former Detroit pilot, ran his string of consecutive hit games to 19.

The St. Louis Browns' victory over Boston came dramatically in the tenth inning when Ken Williams blasted one of slim Harris' curves out of the lot for a home run, breaking a deadlock to win 6 to 5. The victory, St. Louis' fifth in the last six games, jumped them to a third place tie with Philadelphia. The Sox created their share of the excitement by falling on Wingo for four runs in the ninth to tie the score after two were out.

Huttons Troupe Triangles

The Hutton A. C. defeated the Triangles on Thursday night by the score of 8-3. Hahn and Sottile composed the battery of the Huttons while Snyder and Fisher did the twirling and receiving respectively for the losers. The Hutton A. C. would like to hear from the following teams: Rubr Olive Bridge, Whipnets, Cubs and Pan-Ams. The manager's call is 1244-W.

K. H. S. to Play At Middletown

Saturday afternoon the Maroon and White baseball squad will journey to Middletown to meet the High School team of that place. Kingston and Middletown are tied in the DUSO race, both having defeated Poughkeepsie and Newburgh and both having to play Fort Jervis. If Kingston defeats Middletown Saturday her chance for the DUSO title is secure. However, if Middletown should win, K. H. S. may have to be satisfied with a tie for first. Friday, May 27, will be K. H. S.'s last DUSO League game unless a tie occurs between Kingston and Middletown. Dad Davis, who held Poughkeepsie and Newburgh to well, will be on the mound. Bud's arm seems to be in the best of form and he should be able to hold the Middletown as well as he did the others. Harry Edinger will do the catching.

WARRINGTON ALL-STARS DOWNED CLAREMONT A. C.

On Thursday evening the Warrington All-Stars defeated the Claremont A. C. at the Fair Grounds by the score of 14 to 12. The Claremonts scored seven runs off Freer in the first inning. When the All-Stars came to bat they put six tallies across the platter.

Hicks took Freer's place in the box in the second inning, and the Claremonts only scored five runs off him in the remaining part of the game.

There were three home runs knocked by the teams. One by Kille of the Claremonts and one each by Hicks and Marks of the Warringtons. Hicks also knocked two doubles.

The battery for the winners consisted of Freer and Hicks doing the twirling and Lewis behind the plate; Mathies and V. Fischer pitched and McNierney and Houghtaling did the receiving for the Claremonts.

The All-Stars will not play on Sunday but will cross bats with the Hutton A. C. on Monday evening at the Fair Grounds.

Valuable Clay

Kaolin or china clay, is the fine white clay used in the manufacture of porcelain. It is derived from the decomposition of feldspar in rocks. The chief British source of supply is the clay pits of Devon and Cornwall. Kaolin is also used for the sizing of printing paper and cotton cloth, and in the preparation of certain pigments.

Good catcher since the resignation of Tomaseski, now with the Blue Sox, and an important factor in their winning ability. Tom Carpenter is scheduled to do the hurling against the Robins.

The Pan-Ams are booked up until the latter part of June. On Sunday, May 22, they will contest with the Tannersville club and on the following Sundays will play Malden, Woodstock, Ellenville and Gardiner.

Roberts Record Is Quite Unique One

He's knocked out two fellows who have knocked out a pair of currently reigning champions—but he's never received a shot at a championship himself. That's Eddie Roberts. And here's the story. On June 23, 1926, Morris Schindler kayeed Pete Latta, now the water king. On September 28, 1926, Roberts battered Schindler. On June 24, 1926, Joe Dundee scored a technical knockout over Micky Walker, present middleweight champ, from whom Pete Latta had just won the water title. And on December 8, 1926, Roberts kayeed Dundee in one round. Roberts, incidentally, never has been knocked out.

Larger Crowd at Big Bout Tonight

Postponement of Saturday-Evening Fight Until Tonight Will Add To Excitement—Fighters May Lose To Edge.
New York, May 20 (AP)—Richard was up at the count of ten today from the second right hand slam Joe playing has managed to land on his chin in 20 years of fight promotion.

With guard high and jaw teeth behind his shoulder, Tex accused local weather report of "clear, hot and warm" for conditions at the Yankee Stadium where yesterday's deluge washed out his heavyweight elimination "semi-final" between the Boston Shaggers, Jimmy Maloney and Jack Sharkey. If the rain-magic manages to evade that guard again the match may be postponed a week.

Only once before in his long career has the weather man tolled a similar count on one of Richard's feature outdoor attractions. That was in May, 1926, when Paul Berlenbach was delayed a day in winning the light-heavyweight championship from Michael McGuire because of rain on the original date of the battle.

Yesterday's storm, a downpour that lasted all day, brought the postponement of postponement late to catch all of the fans flocking in from Boston to see their hometown prides battle on a foreign soil for the right to face Jack Dempsey in the former heavyweight king's comeback effort in August.

Several thousand enthusiasts arrived on overnight boats and a train disgorged a load until word of the postponement at 11 a. m. halted the invasion.

Although the elements struck hard at the condition of the fighting, Richard's prospects of a large "gate" were increased by the rain. With the advance sale of $175,000 yesterday, and the advance day's returns not in the promoter's declared the receipts would exceed $300,000 "house."

The battlers themselves saw silver linings in the rain clouds. Both were in superb condition. Enter the ring last night for the first round grind and each feared the extra day would take the edge from his condition.

State Baseball Federation.
The annual spring meeting of the Empire State Baseball Federation will be held at the Hotel Alamac, Broadway and 71st street, New York city on Tuesday evening, May 24, at 8 o'clock. George W. J. Blackfish No Longer

Welcome on Cape Cod

Blackfish sometimes came too close to the beaches of Cape Cod and Nantucket. Then shore whalers put off in boats and made a little honest money trying out the oil for watch oil makers. Anywhere along the cape or the shores of Nantucket sound the cry might go up that a blackfish, or a school of them, had got into shoal water and were stranded by the receding tide. Then all hands available pelted down shore with knives, spades, buckets and axes. Men put up brick try works and built fires. Bubber was boiled into oil, and folks who shared in the profits thought the reek was lovely.

But blackfish, like whales, gradually gained emancipation from the condition of prey. Substitutes for their oil were found. No more did the cry
"Blackfish down shore!" bring a whole population running to the slaughter.
Then, like a magic journey back into the past, in August, 1926, once more that shout rang along the beaches from Provincetown to Truro: The beach at Truro was afloat with 60 huge, fat, glossy blackfish, all frantic panicly, surprised by a receding tide in the sandy shallows, unable to turn toward the sea, each fighting madly to get farther up the entangling sandy slope.

But surely that cry would bring no response, for the business was dead and everyone knew it. But what was this? A dozen men hurrying shoreward with oars? Some women, children, boats flocking in, rushing in.
But never a spade, never a knife, harpoon or ax. The air rang with the splashing of oars and paddles upon fat, glossy, round sides. Cries and more splashing. Everybody trying frantically to urge the galled fish to turn around and escape to deep water!
Humanitarian? Hardly.

There is a law on the cape which forces a property owner to bury or otherwise dispose of all fish stranded on his land. And 60 blackfish take some burying.—Captain Dingle in Adventure Magazine.

Bread Upon the Waters

This little incident has been reported to us:

A woman got on a Back Bay car and, fumbling for her purse, she found she had left it at home. "I'm afraid I shall have to get off at the next stop,"
she said to the conductor. "I haven't brought any money with me."
Just then a newsboy who was standing near her said: "Here, lady, I got a time to lend yer." She looked at the boy and took the proffered coin.
"Thank you," she said. "I'll pay it back if you will give me your address."

"Don't worry about dat," he replied. "I'm the kid you gave half a dollar to last Christmas when you bought a paper from me on de corner.
I ain't forget you. I'm sellin' papers
there yet."

She studied at him and when he left the car he was about the prettiest boy in town.—Boston Transcript.

ADMISSION

SUCCESS

By SIDNEY J. BURGOYNE

"A 5 A man thinketh, he is," my friend.
So if you would win Success,
You must THINK and WORK to that very end.
And you'll have Success—no less.

When you are ready, you'll find it
there
Waiting outside your door,
And you can take just as big a share
As you deserve—but no more.

Success doesn't come to those who shirk.
It's not at your beck and call—
You must add to your "thinking" some darn good work
And EARN Success—that's all.

So THINK Success—But don't stop
there,
Pitch in and work for it, too:
There's nothing too great to do and dare
To help you "put it through."

If you'll "use your dome" to THINK
Success,
And your hands and heart and soul
To tackle the job and WORK for Success—
You're going to reach your goal!

But don't let a thought of failure in,
And shut every fear-thought out;
For there's one thing, sure—no man can win
Success through distrust and doubt.

You've got to KNOW you can and will,
And value yourself at par
Whatever the job you have to fill;
AS YOU THINK AND WORK—YOU ARE.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

THE MEASURING WORM

IF YOU are sitting on the piazza of a farmhouse and see one of those little creatures known as the measuring worm looping its way over your clothing, brush it off right away. If you don't you are likely to die before your time—as any country-bred person can tell you. They will probably laugh at the superstition as they recount it, but nevertheless, watch how quickly they brush off a measuring worm if one gets on them.

This old superstition arises from that association of ideas with things, so common with our prehistoric ancestors and so natural to the human mind in all ages—not by any means excepting this age.

The little larva of the geometric moth has feet only at bow and stern, so when he moves he draws up his hind feet, places them close to his front feet and then sends his front feet on ahead for a fresh foothold;
apparently measuring off the person upon whom he crawls in slow and solemn manner.

Why is he making this peculiar motion, so different from the method of locomotion with other worms? The submerged, primitive mind arises from the "unconscious" and answers:
"He is measuring out the life of man."
"He is measuring for a shroud." It is useless to argue that he may be measuring you for a new suit of clothes; for the primitive mind's natural tendency is to look on the dark side of things and regard the unusual as the threatening. The writer has heard children cry with awe: "Brush off that measuring worm! If you don't, when he takes his last measure
you die."

Safe Parachute

A new type of parachute has been developed in Switzerland that works by machinery. It is so controlled that after it is launched from a balloon or airplane it automatically opens falling within a few feet of the ground, thereby preventing the contents of the balloon from being damaged.

BLAST KILLS CHILDREN

This first and exclusive picture of the consolidated school at Bath, Mich., shows the ruins after a huge dynamite blast that wrecked a wing of the building killing two score persons, mostly children. Rescue workers are shown searching the debris for injured and dead. A drew Kehoe, himself killed by one of the two explosions, is believed to have set the blast because taxes for the school cost him his farm. Pageant Meeting At Woodstock

A second meeting of the people of Woodstock and vicinity will be held at Athletic Hall, Woodstock, on Monday evening, May 23, the purpose being to discuss the matter of the coming Pageant to be held in Kingston on June 30.

Through some confusion as to meeting place the first meeting was not well attended and it is desired that every one in that locality feel an interest in the matter and show

it by their presence there.

The local committee is particularly anxious that the meeting in Athletic Hall, for the purpose of discussing ways and means, be well attended.

Clintondale Grange Meeting

On Monday evening, May 16, a regular meeting of Clintondale Grange, No. 957, was held. There were sixty in attendance who took an active part in important business discussion after which the lecturer presented a delightful program. It consisted of tableaux which depicted scenes after the Civil, Spanish-American and World Wars and the Rock of Ages. Several solos were very admirably rendered. The memory of the five members of the Grange who died during the war was called to the minds of the Grangers by evidence of bouquets of white candles. After the meeting ice cream and cake were served.

THE KEY NOTE FOR SUCCESS IS THRIFT

All along the line the keynote for success seems to be thrift—right in time steps forth in the van of leadership the great new clean sanitary Mohican Market, with its splendid equipment. Years ahead of its time for keeping foods and provisions in perfect condition from the time it reaches this market until it reaches the cus-

In line with its tradition for selling at the lowest in the city prices the Mohican not only continues but even emphasizes this thrift feature.

This week the offering in all sections is typical and in some cases unusual even for the Mohi-

DRAIN LAKE TO GET TREASURE

Salvaging Ancient Ships of Caligula Is a Task
for Hercules.

Washington.—Bringing out of the mysterious depths of Lake Nemi the two sunken ships of the Roman Emperor Caligula is a task for a modern Hercules, and Italian engineers have been carefully studying countless plans proposed by individuals from all over Europe.

Suggestions fall into two general classes, says Prof. William S. Messer of the classical department of Dartmouth college, who describes the situation in Art and Archeology. The first method would be to raise the sunken ships. This was attempted in 1480, when workmen with grappling hooks fished for one of the royal barges and succeeded only in tearing off part of the prow and sides. It was also tried in 1535 and in 1827, with further damage to the heavy, unmovable hull.

Plan to Drain Lake.
The second type of plan seems more feasible, Professor Messer states, if the cost proves to be within reason. This method would involve draining the lake and removing the ships from the low meadow land of the lake bottom. The Alban lake, near by, has an outlet built by the Romans about 887 B. C.

"As this lake is 85 feet lower it may be possible, by transferring the waters of Nemi to it, to use this ancient wonder of Roman engineering for restoring to the modern world Roman Imperial barges," says Professor Messer.

"A tradition of a vessel of fabulous magnificence sunk in Lake Nemi persisted from Imperial times and was never wholly forgotten," he states. "Fragments fished over the spot for centuries and no one knows what prizes have been secretly recovered and sold."

Even as late as 1895 attempts were made to obtain bronze decorations, bits of marble flooring and other ornaments of the luxurious ship, but public sentiment began to protest against the destructiveness of the divers and now the commission appointed by the Italian government is determined that no program will be followed which will further endanger the historic Roman treasures.

The finding of an inscribed lead pipe in 1895 proved that the larger and better known ship belonged to the Emperor Caligula, rather than to Tiberius, to whom tradition attributed it.

Is Real Ship, Belief.
An Italian naval engineer who talked with the divers in 1895 concluded that this royal bark was a real ship, with rudder and oars.

"Others are disinclined to believe this," Professor Messer says, "and hold with the earlier investigator De Marchi that it was, rather, a great float with elaborate superstructures, a palace, gardens, chapels adorned with marbles, bronzes, precious stones and all the luxuries which the mad emperor knew so well how to employ."

"The answer to the questions awaits the report of the commission and the funds necessary to carry out the accepted plan."

Starving Family Shares Last Crust With Dog

New York.—All night long the whimpering of a dog had kept tenants of the front and rear buildings in a little street in New York city's tenement district on edge. It was the second night that the animal's cries had rent the silence, and the police were notified.

Two patrolmen traced the whimpering to the apartment of Mrs. Gussie Tesser, on the first floor. They knocked at the door. The only response was the intensified howling of the dog. They turned the knob and walked in.

A slight woman, pale, with feverish eyes, lay in one of the two beds. On the other side of the room, in another bed, lay two children, their faces wan and gaunt. They were Mrs. Tesser's children, Catherine, five, and Harry, three.

The woman told police her husband had deserted them ten days before. For a week the three had had nothing to eat. The last morsel was a crust, which the children shared with their mother, the dog. The woman was taken to a hospital, and the children were placed in the care of a children's society.

Man's Bones Found in Mastodon Layer

Sagerton, Texas.—Bones which when put together form several complete skeletons of large mastodons have been dug out of a grave pit near here during the last few weeks. In a deep layer of the bed and close to where mastodon bones were found, the skeleton of a man was unearthed a few days ago. The circumstances connected with the skeleton led to the belief that it is that of a prehistoric man, dating back, perhaps, to the age of the mastodons.

John B. Alliger Dies in Hospital

married with the Dutch. He spent his early life on the farm and in attendance at the district school of Kyserike.

In 1863 he entered Fort Edward Institute, where he remained one and one-half terms, and during the winter of 1864-5, taught the Cottrell district school in the town of Rosendale.

Became a Banker.

Mr. Alliger came to Kingston on May 30, 1865, and for two years was employed as clerk in a hardware store. In February, 1867, he entered the National Bank of Rondout as teller, and remained with that institution twenty-five years; the last seven years of that period he served the bank as cashier. In January, 1902, he was made a director and vice president of the bank.

When the Ulster County Savings Institution was reorganized in 1892, Mr. Alliger was chosen one of its trustees, and later in the same year was appointed its treasurer, which office he retained until January 3, 1923, when he resigned. Since then he had led a retired life.

Mr. Alliger had been identified with the Rondout Presbyterian Church since he became a resident of Kingston. He served the church as a member of the board of trustees for twenty years, during twelve of which he served as its treasurer. He had also been identified with the

Y. M. C. A. since its organization, and served as recording secretary and one of its directors. From 1885 to 1894 he served as trustee of the old Ulster Academy, now Public School No. 2.

Prominent in Masonry.

There were few men in Ulster county who were better acquainted with the Masonic ritual work, and during the many years he had been a Mason, Mr. Alliger officiated at many Masonic funeral services for departed brethren. He became a member of Rondout Lodge, No. 243, F. & A. M., in 1869. In 1885 he was elected master. He was for three years assistant grand lecturer of the grand lodge of New York for the Third judicial district, was district deputy grand master of the Tenth Masonic district during the grand lodge year of 1893-4, and was also a representative of the grand lodge of Kansas.

He was exalted in Mount Horeb Chapter, No. 75, R. A. M., of which he was past high priest, and was knighted in Rondout Commandery, No. 52, K. T., of which he was past eminent commander. He was the fourth member to be knighted after the commandery was organized in 1871. He was a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Scottish Rite bodies of New York city, Northern Jurisdiction, and was a member of Mecca Temple of the Mystic Shrine.

In politics Mr. Alliger was a Republican. He never aspired to political office and held none except upon the organization of the police force of Kingston in 1891, when he was appointed one of the first members of the board of police commissioners.

and served six years.

On October 27, 1869, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary A. Smith, daughter of John B. and Elizabeth Hudler Smith, and in 1919 he and Mrs. Alliger celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Alliger died several years ago, since when Mr. Alliger made his home for a time at the Eagle Hotel and recently at No. 77 Pearl street.

Mr. Alliger is survived by one daughter, Alice N., wife of Henry C. Connelly, head of the Connelly Drug Company.

Private funeral services will be held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry C. Connelly, President's Place, Saturday afternoon. Interment in Montrose cemetery.

From now on a swimmer will have to be pretty well greased to get into the heavy headlines with a Catalina swim.

Good crops at home this summer and scant crops abroad would no doubt do much to simplify the 1928 situation.

Crow Ghost, grandson of Sitting Bull, has joined the United States cavalry. Crow ought to be in the aviation service.

Card of Thanks.
We wish to thank our many neighbors and friends, also members of the Presbyterian Sunday school, for their acts of kindness and beautiful floral tributes during the illness and death of our son, Willard D. Myers.

Lindbergh Seen Over Nova Scotia

The unfavorable local weather again made the verdict a doubtful one. The rain did not last long and although a heavy mist hung over the field, the weather report was studied again and then Lindbergh suddenly said "Let's go" to S. J. Stumpf, a fellow Missouri National Guardsman and representative of the St. Louis group sponsoring the non-stop flight effort.

"The 'Spirit of St. Louis,' which had been carefully gone over by mechanics and found in perfect condition, was wheeled from a hangar which had been barred to all, due to fear of fire. With a truck furnishing the motive power, the monoplane was towed to the west end of Roosevelt field where the America Trans-oceanic Company, owner of the 'America,' soon to start on a flight to Paris, has a long runway to use as a speedway as heavily loaded planes taxi along to get the tremendous speed necessary to get them into the air.

The youngster, who has declared that he believes in his plane, again justified his reputation for doing the unexpected. He stopped the plane when he reached the spot where the runway begins and began putting in the rest of his gasoline there.

In turning the nose of his plane toward the northeast he was almost on his course from the beginning, but he sacrificed a safety precaution. If he had started the other way and failed to get off the ground or was forced to land after getting into the air, Curtiss field, nearby would have been a safety zone.

Has No Radio.

Traveling light, with only a week's supply of army emergency rations, "Slim" has no radio and will not be heard from until he lands in Paris. He will go to the great circle course following the compass all the way. He hoped as he left that he would "get a break" off Newfoundland where he was anxious to be able to see land markings and get his bearings for his dash across the ocean to Ireland.

Always a young man of few words, he had even less to say than usual before he left this morning. When the plane was being fuelled and then carefully wiped he sat in an automobile nearby with B. F. Mahoney of the Ryan Air Lines, builder of the plane. He seemed impatient to be off. He half smiled when the weather began to clear and when the sun finally came out just before he crawled into the one-seated cockpit to tune up his motor his smile became a broad grin.

Wished Good Luck.

Clarence D. Chamberlin, who had hoped for several weeks to get off on a hop to Paris, wished Lindbergh good luck as did Commander Richard E. Byrd, who in a few days will follow the trail blazed by the youth. Commander Byrd's careful preparations to have the "America" act as escort for the "Spirit of St. Louis," finally prevented rather than insured it. The "America" was in the air for a three hour test flight when the commander decided the youngster was ready to go. He came down to find out when he could tender his services as escort and found the flying horseman so far advanced in his preparations that he was able to be off before the Giant-Fokker could get back into the air to follow.

Evinced No Nervousness.

Lindbergh evinced no excitement or nervousness before the hop off. In the Curtiss hangar, the young trail blazer, after pouring carefully over weather charts played with a stray kitten. He donned his flying suit about 7:30 a. m. Five minutes before his motor was started. Before boarding the plane he smilingly remarked to Chief Abraham Skidmore of the Nassau county police—"when I enter that cockpit, it's like going into the death chamber. When I get to Paris it will be like getting a pardon from the governor."

Lindbergh, who had waited a week at Garden City for the weather to clear sufficiently to give him what he considered a chance to make the non-stop flight to Paris, left behind two planes being groomed for New York to Paris flights. The "America" probably will not be able to start this week even if the sponsors and commander desired. Rodman Wainmaker and his assistants have stressed that the proposed flight is scientific and will not be made a race.

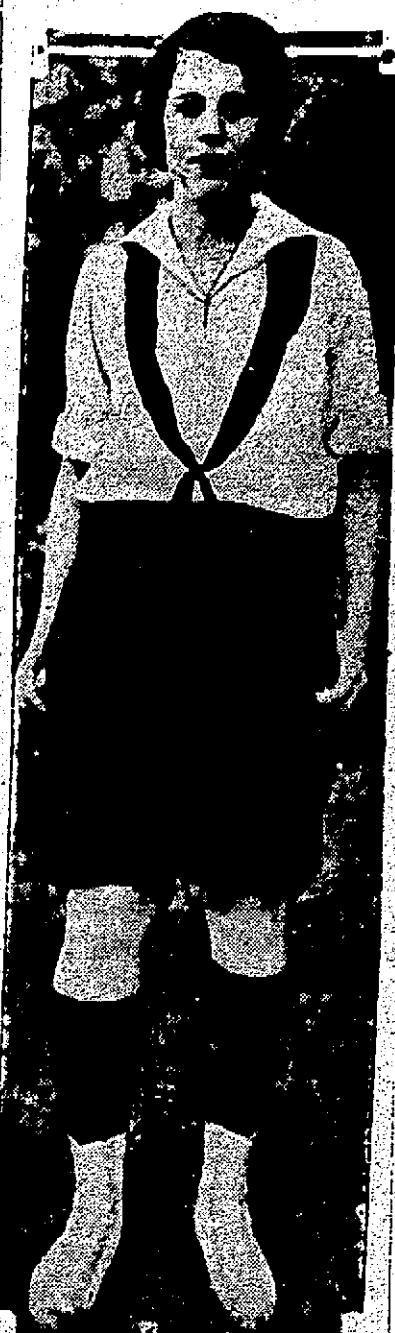

The Bellanca monoplane Columbia, whose start has been delayed by dissension between Navigator Lloyd Bertand and Barker Charles Levine, will not hop off while Captain Lindbergh is in the air. It was announced. If Lindbergh is successful, there will be no Bellanca flight, Levine said.

Commander Byrd thinks Lindbergh will land in Paris in the next 26 to 40 hours. "Certainly, I think he will get there. I consider the chances three to one in his favor. He has the gas, his weather outlook is good and, of course, he has the courage and ability."

Byrd Flight Postponed.
Although the Byrd expedition is not ready to go, Lindbergh's departure is postponed indefinitely until next week. The commander explained that he would not think of taking the air until Lindbergh has had his opportunity to reach the goal. Lindbergh travels alone, has one motor and is regularly catered for by the Raymond Oriskany $25,000 prize. Byrd has three motors, two flying companions and is seeking scientific results from the trip.

A crowd which started assembling by two and three before midnight and swelling to thousands at daylight, saw the hop off. The young dare-devil was frequently cheered. He was given a cheer when he appeared at his hangar, another when he crawled into the plane and the last two, in greater volume, as he started taking down the field and then climbed into the air. He did not hear the last one.

Athlete Wins Highest Mark as a Scholar

Twila Shoemaker, of Centralia, Kan., is one of the eight girls to win a "KU" sweater at the University of Kansas. And off the athletic field she broke all scholastic records.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (U-P-S) Special—A new record in college careers has been run up by Miss Twila Shoemaker, of Centralia, Kan., at the University of Kansas here.

In her four years as a student she received the highest mark in every examination in every subject she took up, a college record. Her reports look like a record. Her reports look like a stenographic report of a stuttering man attempting to recite the alphabet—nothing but "A's." And, of course, she's a Phi Beta Kappa.

But she's not a shallow-chested, bespectacled individual. She's good to look up to, and her record in athletics is a close second to her record in academics. She's one of the eight of the 2,200 girls of the institution who won "KU" sweaters this year. And this is the most unusual factor in her record—she worked her way through college, supporting herself in every one of the four years at the institution.

She has chosen to become a school teacher.

Old Dances Revived

Old-time dances of the days of Merry England are being revived in London and vicinity. An all-England festival of folk dancing and singing was held recently and nearly 9,000 people stepped the figures that once were popular on the village green. Tunes that were familiar in the olden times were played by an old-fashioned orchestra and sung by the crowd. One feature was a display by two teams of traditional sword dancers from Durham and Yorkshire. At the time of this festival 1,000 dancers attended a folk song and dance school in another hall in London. Similar events are being given in other parts of England.

The Patient's Preference

Dr. Cusick Dodge, the psychoanalyst, said at a nurses' reception at Our-chitta college in Philadelphia:

"It is important for a nurse always to look her client. A nice-looking nurse emits a cheering, stimulating, strengthening influence—healthy rays, we call them."

Doctor Dodge smiled and went on:

"I said to a young man the other day: 'You're rather bad, you know. I'll have to send you a trained nurse.' 'No, doctor,' the young man objected. 'Send me one with a short skirt.'"

World Map in Concrete

American boys attending a school near Paris are laying out one of the most ambitious maps ever attempted—a huge plot in concrete, with real water for rivers, smoking volcanoes and other features. The seas are deep enough for the pupils to ride by boat from one part to another, the railroad trains are drawn by steam engines and the continents are accurately represented in contour, with mountain ranges and other points indicated. THE MAKING OF SUNKIST BUTTER.

Butter is the most important product obtained from milk. The cooperative farmers bring the milk to the Sunkist Creamery, where it is sampled. The quality of the milk produced, the sanitation of the buildings, the methods used, and the health of the stock are the necessary requirements.

If accepted, it is poured into a large weighing tank and weighed. The farmer is paid according to the amount of butter fat his milk contains. Sunkist Butter contains over 82 per cent butter fat. This is the highest tested butter. This milk is emptied from the weighing tank through a long pipe into a vat. From this vat it is put through the separators and the cream taken off and run through a pasteurizing machine. This cream is ripened in what is known as a starter tank, where hot water coils add the process. It is then turned into huge churns and churned at a temperature of about 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

The butter forms in little golden globules and the remaining liquid is called buttermilk. The butter is then washed with clean water and salt worked into it. The salt acts both as a means of making it more palatable and as a preservative, keeping the butter fresh.

The UNITED STATES MAKES ABOUT 630 MILLION POUNDS OF CREAMERY BUTTER A YEAR. THE GREATEST BUTTER MAKING COUNTRIES ARE THE UNITED STATES AND DENMARK.

SPEARHEAD CLEW TO VIKINGS IN U. S.

Flint Different From That Used by Indians.

Orono, Maine.—A large flint spearhead made of material different from Indian spearheads of this state is arousing renewed interest in the stories of Norse adventures in North America in the eleventh century. The spearhead, which was found on the beach at Pemaquid several years ago, is now in the possession of Walter B. Smith, who has made extensive studies of Indian remains in this region.

In a report on the possibility of finding traces of the Norsemen, just made by Mr. Smith, he states that the spearhead may be Indian in origin. He points out, however, that it is not of flint, such as the Indians used, but seems to be identical with a rock called hellandite, which is well known in Scandinavia. The fact that eleventh century Vikings had passed the age of stone tools adds to the mystery.

Where the Vikings landed in this country is not exactly known. The place described as Vinland is believed to have been somewhere along the Labrador coast, and the accounts say that some of the explorers stayed several years.

"If the sagas are true," Mr. Smith says, "it seems improbable that some of the numerous bays of the extensive coast of Maine could have remained unknown to these hardy voyagers. They would have been lured here by the spirit of adventure or the hope of gain, or driven hither by storms."

Mr. Smith has spent some time vainly seeking Indian village sites and burial places around Pemaquid, in the hope of finding objects which the Indians might have obtained from the Norsemen. A number of shell heaps proved that Indians had once lived there, but no trace of European work was found in any of these.

Tools of iron possessed by the Norsemen would probably be masses of rust by this time, he points out. But most objects of copper, bronze, lead and silver would be still recognizable. Shards of Norse pottery might still survive, and also glass, particularly beads.

"If Norsemen actually discovered North America at that early date, I believe there is still a possibility of finding proof of it, unless such proof is already destroyed," Mr. Smith concludes.

Layman Sits as Judge in Court of Appeals

Trenton, N. J.—Joseph L. Dear of Jersey City shares with George Van Burskirk of Hackensack the distinction of being the only layman on the bench of the highest court of the state—the only court in which laymen sit. They receive $40 for each day spent in court.

Although the constitution of 1844 empowers governors to appoint laymen to any court of the state, they have always been appointed to the Court of Errors and Appeals. This court renders its decisions by ballot rather than by individual opinion, being one of the few courts in the United States which does so. The procedure is a relic of Colonial days, when the court was made up of the governor and his council of county representatives.

The bench of Errors and Appeals today is composed of 10 judges—the chancellor, chief justice, his associate justices and six special judges.

2 Loggers Hurt Injured

Man 15 Miles in Snow

Klamath Falls, Ore.—Herculean efforts of two loggers saved a life when the hardy woodsmen hauled a suffering co-worker on a sled over more than fifteen miles of snow to a mill where an ambulance waited.

Dan Walters, better known as "Coffee Dan," was still in a serious condition from the accident at Fort's mill, in a remote district, when the saw he tended cut off his leg just above the ankle.

The two loggers—whose names authorities could not learn—hauled Walters over the long stretch of snow and it was through their efforts that Walters was saved from death. Weakened from loss of blood, the sawyer arrived at McCollum's mill.

He was given first-aid treatment and then rushed in an ambulance twenty miles to a Klamath Falls hospital.

CONVICT MERRILY AGREES TO DIVORCE

Says Wife Darned Socks Verbally and Otherwise.

Baltimore.—Frank Lample is serving a term for an automobile theft. Recently Mrs. Helen P. Lample filed suit for absolute divorce. Lample has just filed his answer in the nature of a personal letter, written from the penitentiary, to Charles R. Whiteford, clerk of the Circuit court. Mrs. Lample charges desertion.

Lample's reply was: "Sir: the bill of complaint and subpoena on behalf of my wife on hand, allow me to say the charge is true and I have no wish to oppose the wishes of Mrs. Lample. My wife was exceptionally kind, patient and affectionate. She cooked a wicked meal, did tricks with the washboard and darned my socks—verbally and otherwise. Further, my wife was sensible and sane, except when she married me. She was a perfect 36, with a powerful punch in either hand, and as frisky as a two-year-old at the barrier. I was a cave man, spoke out of turn, and failed to appreciate the loving qualities anybody but a donkey would appreciate."

"I do affirm (how's that for fifty English) that the state relieved my loving wife of a great burden when it assumed the responsibility for my welfare, and will be finishing a good job when it disassembles what I fearlessly term my matrimonial river. If you can trump up the above statement, wire me the evidence at your expense. If you can't, give the little girl a hand. Very truly yours,

"FRANK LAMPLE."

Criminal Hides Gold Necklace in Neck Cavity

Calcutta.—Another case of the extraordinary practice among Indian criminals of hiding stolen goods in an artificial cavity in the throat has come to light in Calcutta.

A man suspected of having stolen a gold necklace was being searched by the police, who kept him under observation for a considerable time. They could find no trace of the necklace, but suddenly the man showed signs of distress and produced the necklace from his mouth, which had already been examined. A police officer said that many thieves in Calcutta have artificial cavities in their throats. Cases have been known where men can conceal as many as twenty rupees in cavities which are formed by a steady process.

Beginning with a small, hard object, usually a zinc ball, a culprit soon learns to secrete in his throat a heavier thing, such as a small bar of silver, and in a couple of years a large cavity is formed.

Bet on Bryan in 1896; Still Has His Whiskers

Romulus, N. Y.—A monument to the late William Jennings Bryan and his unsuccessful aspirations for the Presidency hangs here in the whiskers of a supporter who vowed never to shave until the great Commoner became President.

William Ellbert is the Bryanite whose beard grows on and on. He made the compact with William Dempsy, another ardent supporter of Bryan, when the Commoner first ran for President some 30 years ago, and arranged with Dempsy to trim his hair and shave him publicly in honor of the predicted victory. The victory didn't materialize, but the beard did.

Upon Bryan's last defeat Ellbert decided he was through even with cutting, and hasn't cast a vote for any candidate for any office, national, state or local, since.

Pet Cat Gives Life to Save Eight From Gas

New York.—A pet cat gave his life to save eight persons from death by coal gas asphyxiation. Scratching on a bedroom door out of the apartment in a ten-story tenement house in Monroe street, the cat awakened an eighteen-year-old boy, who detected the fumes and spread the alarm. The cat's body was later found under a table.

The inclination of some judges to extend the sanctity which attaches to the home to include the stovepipe in tenement houses unexamined search has some justification in the fact that it is the greatest approach to a home that many people own.

Go Far Back to Find Idea of Steam Engine

Dr. Frank H. Viscelli, managing editor of the Standard dictionary, says the original steam engine was the colliery at Nero, which was exhibited in the Serapeum of Alexandria in the year 150 B. C. The Serapeum is the great temple of Serapis, that stood near Memphis and was built over the mausoleum of the Apis, or sacred bull, out in Egypt.

The first steam engine equipped with a cylinder and piston was invented by Denis Papin, in 1690. He was a French physicist, who invented a condensing engine, siphon and safety valve. Not until 1769, however, did Newcomen and Caley make the piston engine a practical engine, but just to give you an idea of what an international thing the steam engine is, let me say that, although there is no record of the use of steam expansion as a propulsive power prior to the seventeenth century, with the dawn of this century an Italian, Giovanni Battista della Porta, in a work of his on pneumatics, suggested the principle of steam condensation and consequent suction, incorporated in his water pump, in 1609, by Thomas Savery, an English military engineer, who lived from 1579 to 1715 and wrote on paddle wheels.

"It was, as I have said before, in 1769 that Newcomen improved the pumping engine, adopting the principle of cylinder and piston found in Papin's invention, but this became entirely obsolete when, in 1789, James Watt added a condenser separate from the cylinder, and this made an enormous saving in the expenditure of heat. He secured a patent for applying a continuous receiving motion to a shaft provided with a flywheel, in 1781, but left it to Richard Trevithick, in England, and Oliver Evans, in the United States, to introduce, about 1800, the high-pressure engine that opened the way to Stephenson and the modern locomotive."

Different Now

The small girl had taken to scrubbing her neck vigorously every morning. Mother was puzzled, because hitherto it had always been a struggle to get the small girl to put any water on her neck. "Why are you so clean all of a sudden?" asked mother. "Well, boys sit all around me in school now," said the small girl, scrubbing harder than ever.—Springfield Union.

Mothers "Check" Babies in London Theaters

London.—Fading facilities with which attendants for babies and pre-schoolers have been arranged for at a new cinema in Edmonton, a London borough.

Mothers who check their youngsters may be summoned from the theater, in case of an emergency, within a minute or so by the number of their baby check being flashed on the screen during the film performance. Sidney L. Bernstein, proprietor of the new Edmonton cinema house, says the scheme has worked so successfully that the idea is to be adopted in the string of ten cinemas which he owns.

MR. AND MRS. OSTRICH

BILLIE BROWNE's call this day was to be upon the Ostrich pair at the zoo.

Billie Browne was always much amused by Mr. and Mrs. Ostrich.

He thought their ways were interesting and he always liked to hear about them.

Then, too, he always liked to tell everyone he could that ostrich feathers meant unhappiness and tragedy in the lives of birds.

The ostrich family weren't hurt when their feathers were taken from them, no, not at all; in fact it made them pleased and comfortable.

Decided to Take Turns in Hatching the Eggs.

But this time that he went to see Mr. and Mrs. Ostrich he could see from the moment of his arrival that they were each in a funny frame of mind and Billie knew he would enjoy himself.

"We haven't large brains," said Mr. Ostrich, "but we have a fine system for all that."

"Tell me about it," urged Billie Browne.

"Our brains are small in size," said Mrs. Ostrich, "and my mate is quite correct when he says what he does. But we have enough brains for our purpose."

"If we had more brains we'd have to study and keep our brains up to the mark."

"That would be a nuisance. Thankful I am that our brains are no more trouble to us than they are."

To some, it would appear, brains are a great bother.

"Yes, our system is fine. Mr. Ostrich was right about that, too."

"We take turns in hatching the eggs. I sit upon them in the daytime for my gray costume looks like the sand in the daytime and so protects me," Mrs. Ostrich explained.

"A good idea," said Billie Browne.

"And I sit at night and watch out for them then as I wear a black feathered suit which looks like the night," said Mr. Ostrich.

"That does sound like a perfect system," agreed Billie Browne.

"Neither of us is cowardly when it comes to protecting our young," Mr. Ostrich continued.

"I will hurry the brood away while Mrs. Ostrich will face the enemy and fall down as though there were no more life in her and so it makes the enemy feel it is useless to do anything."

"We have good eyesight. Our hearing is our next best sense and smelling comes third. We really only use this sense in feeding and in recognizing our young."

"Some say it is a strange way of knowing one's children, but then it does for us, so why should we overtax our brains and think of other ways?"

"It would be foolish," said Mrs. Ostrich. "But I hope in time people will stop saying I hide my head in the sand when I'm frightened."

"I fall down and have my head quite close to the sand—but I don't hide it. People have thought it was hidden because my head and the sand are so much alike in color."

"And the story has been passed along. And gossip has kept it going."

"I may have a small brain, but I know enough to know that my body isn't safe just because my head might be hidden—and so I don't hide my head."

"Oh, well, I'm above getting mad even if I'm gossiped about."

"That is very wise of you," said Billie Browne, "for I must admit that while I know it is foolish, I feel a little hurt at anything said about me that is not kind."

"You are far more sensible, Mrs. Ostrich."

"But I've been delighted to have heard your stories and to have had the honor and pleasure of this talk."

"How very handsomely you make your departure," said Mr. Ostrich, as Billie Browne made a low bow upon finishing his speech.

"And Mrs. Ostrich added:

"You show a fine and respectful manner toward the happy Ostrich pair."

"It makes our ostrich hearts rejoice!"

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"BROADCLOTH"

IN THE word "broadcloth," by which we describe a certain fine textured woolen suiting material, we have a good example of the curious twists and turns of words.

The name originally referred to the width, not the quality or texture, of the material. It had its origin in the early days of the industry in England when this cloth was made double width.

With the methods when "broadcloth" was being made, then in vogue, we found two weavers were required at the loom in order to bring the stuff across the entire width.

Contrast in Length

"Hazel," one of the most famous, is also the longest of Shakespeare's plays, containing 2120 lines, and "The Comedy of Errors" the shortest, with 1777 lines.

Roslin has laughed at England's probably the belief that a cat can look at a king.

No cat could possibly seem to have heard that Congress has passed a bill to cheer the air.

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

PINS

See a pin and pick it up, all the day you'll have good luck: See a pin and let it lay, bad luck you will have all day.

SLIGHTLY ungrammatical and a bad rhyme; but this jingle may be the solution, nevertheless, of the mystery, "Where do all the pins go to?" They are picked up by superstitious people. And few there be who, seeing a pin, will not stoop to pick it up "for luck." It is doubtful if there is a more widespread superstition than this among English-speaking peoples. Some say that to get the full benefit of the omen the pin should be lying with the point toward you—but these are fussy people. This superstition has as its basis a psychological fact. If the mind is so alert and active that the eye perceives so small an object as a dropped pin, it would naturally follow that the man would as a rule, accomplish a successful day's work.

The idea that he should pick up the pin is a survival from the days when pins were objects of considerable value compared to what they are now; and picking up the lost pin showed that the man was saving as well as observing—an additional cause for a successful day. And there is the same connection today, trifling as it now the value of a pin. For a man who picks up a stray pin not only shows that his mind is alert and his observation keen, but also that he is so accurate of trifles. So why should he not on a day when his mentality is functioning in this manner—meet with that success which men call "luck?"

Australia Needs Teachers

Australia has a shortage of teachers, and many schools have been forced to close. In Victoria more than 300 are needed, and 20 country schools are having enforced vacations. To cope with the situation the department of education is employing 100 married women, mostly former teachers. The teachers' union explains that low salaries, many receiving less than $15 a week, and unreasonable restrictions, have caused many teachers to resign. Officials are considering salary increases.

Tell Story of Kerrick Slaying

Los Angeles, May 20 (AP)—A living picture of the gin party at which Tom (Two-Gun) Kerrick, film cowboy, met death allegedly because he chose a glass of liquor from the hands of Iris Burns, motion picture extra, in preference to a cup of coffee proffered by Mrs. Sarah Kerrick, his wife, was set before the jury here yesterday in the trial of the five members of the party charged with Kerrick's murder.

The breakfast nook table around which the sextet was gathered at the time of the shooting in the Kerrick home in Hollywood, was brought into court and the five defendants nervously grouped about it to tell a silent story of the tragedy.

The five Mrs. Kerrick, Anita Davis, Miss Burns, Henry Isabell and Joe Hunt, Arizona cowboy, held their places while the state demonstrated its version of how Kerrick was shot.

His Wife as Monitor

Often the judgments of the bureau of industrial relations are laid deep in human nature. A New York manufacturer advertised in the newspapers for young women of a particular type. Girls who took employment in his factory complained of his attentions to them, but none was willing to appear publicly to prosecute him. The authority of the state was invoked, with the result that the manufacturer promised no longer to advertise for employees of any special type or complexion. But the further compromise arranged by the state is described in the Industrial Bulletin in these words:

"It was agreed that the manufacturer's wife remain in the place of business so that no further trouble of this kind should occur."

Most husbands will agree that the arbitration was well suited. New York Sun.

Call of Sea Strong

Residents of the Antipodes retain a strong love for the sea, it was evidenced recently when the Norwegian whaling ship, Nelson-Alonso, put into Hobart, Tasmania, in need of 28 men to complete its complement for a cruise in the Antarctic ocean. As soon as news of the ship's mission was given out, the Norwegian consul had to summon police to keep order outside his office, says the Sydney Bulletin. More than 300 men applied, though the wages were only $20 a month with a bonus of about one-half cent for every barrel of whale oil obtained. The 28 men selected included only three who had previously been to sea. Seven had been retail clerks, and the others included two bank clerks, one surveyor, one engineer, three farmers' sons, a former jockey and a schoolboy.

Record of Adam's Death

While the only reference to Adam's creation can be found in the Old Testament, Adam's death is recorded in the genealogy of the Saxon kings in the archives of the College of Arms, where the pedigrees of the English nobility and gentry are kept since the days of King Richard III. In a beautifully illuminated book artistically illuminated, the biographer of the Saxon kings, who lived round 1250, places them as direct descendants of Adam and consequently feels compelled to record the king's ancestor's death as follows: "Adam, created by the Almighty Lord, died at the age of 57 of youth and was buried in Hebron."—Chicago Daily News.

Surroundings of Race

Always an Influence

Given one race of people spread over an area as large and varied as this hemisphere, only time is needed to produce a variety of modes of living. In the forests of the east of this country arose the misunderstood and chivalrous Iroquois dwellers in the "Long House." To the west the prairies produced a somewhat lower nomadic type. In the southern swamps the Seminoles led another kind of life. In the deserts of the Southwest life was harder, and there we find first the cliff dwellers and later the Hopi.

Spanking Was Waived

"No, Olive," said her father, who was ill in bed, "you mustn't climb up and kiss me. I have a sore throat." The child looked disappointed. "You may wave me a kiss, that will do just as well," he added to comfort her. The little one's natural activity had to have an outlet and a minute or two later she was up on a chair trying to reach something on the mantel. "Get down off that chair," commanded her father. "You will fall and break something." Olive was not promptly obedient. "Get down or I'll spank you," Olive looked at him and remembering, said: "Wave your spank, daddy; that will do as well."—Boston Transcript.

CONSIDER THE FUTURE IN SELECTING DIAMONDS

When You Select a Diamond
Remember a Diamond is a permanent gift—that will be handed down from generation to generation. If you select one of questionable quality it will not be a genuine pleasure to the one who wears it.

We sell only diamonds of known quality—and at a saving, too. We can show you hundreds of settings in white gold, platinum, set with small diamonds ranging from

$8.50 to $150.00

We are pleased to show you this selection.
